

NY's Heavily Taxed Cigarettes

AP Wirephoto

Cigarettes Were Disguised as a Load of Lumber on This Truck Stopped in Maryland

Smugglers' Smokescreen

The men behind New York's multimillion-dollar cigarette racket are veterans of criminal organizations directed by bosses and captains who are rarely connected directly with their underlings.

Most of those known by police to be engaged in the cigarette racket, in one form or another, have had their baptism of fire in other mob enterprises.

Here, compiled with the help of police, tax agents and the Brooklyn district attorney's office, are some of the major figures who operate the mob's cigarette rackets:

John Carneglia, 24, of 739 Hemlock St., Brooklyn. Mari family associate. Awaiting trial in Brooklyn and Queens for masterminding multimillion-dollar car-theft rings. Arrested Jan. 10 with 10 others by FBI for operating cigarette hijack ring in Newark, N.J.

Daniel (Skuny) Carrillo, 58, of 34 E. 106th St., Manhattan. Colombo family associate. Identified by state tax agents as a major cigarette smuggler. Record of 18 arrests and convictions including policy (three), narcotics (three) and bookmaking (two).

Joseph (Junior) Chilli, 35, of 20 Monroe St., Manhattan. Mari family soldier. Identified by tax agents as cigarette smuggler. Record of six arrests, convictions for burglary, policy and contempt of court.

Joseph (Smokey) D'Antuono, 42, of 2055 59th St., Brooklyn. Colombo family associate. Former member of Gallo mob with major waterfront contacts. Identified as cigarette smuggler by tax agents. Record of 11 arrests, convictions for policy, bookmaking (six) and conspiracy.

Joseph (Joe Butter) DeCicco, 46, of 241 Bay 17th St., Brooklyn. Gambino family soldier. Identified by police and tax agents as a cigarette smuggler who works closely with Colombo family associates. Record of nine arrests, convictions for robbery, grand larceny, forgery, dice games.

Anthony (Tony West) DeLutro, 42, of 166 Mulberry St., Brooklyn. Gambino family associate. Repeatedly arrested by tax agents for possessing large quantities of smuggled cigarettes. Identified by federal narcotics agents and U.S. Senate rackets committee as major heroin dealer. Record of nine arrests, conviction for post office burglary reversed on appeal.

Joseph F. Gallo, 38, of 8755 19th Ave., Brooklyn. Colombo family associate. Closely allied with captain John (Sonny) Franzese. Identified by police and tax agents as major figure in cigarette smuggling. Record of six arrests, convictions for attempted burglary, cigarette tax violations.

Anthony Granata, 31, of 303 Bay 11th St., Brooklyn. Colombo family associate. Described by Brooklyn rackets squad and tax agents as boss of cigarette smuggling ring. Record of six arrests, convictions for attempted grand larceny, criminally receiving stolen goods, forgery.

Michael S. LaBarbara Sr., 54, of 207 Pearl Ave., Holtsville. Colombo family associate. Identified by Suffolk police and tax agents as smuggler, loan shark. Record of 36 arrests, convictions for possessing a gun, operating a still (eight).

Ralph Liquori, 44, of 207 E. 56th St., Brooklyn. Associate of both Colombo and Gambino family factions. Identified as smuggler by tax agents who found he supplied beauty parlors in Brooklyn area. Record of five arrests for cigarette tax law violations, all pending.

Angelo Ruggiero, 25, of 311 Eighth Ave., Brooklyn. Colombo family associate. Identified by FBI as key member of cigarette hijack ring with Carneglia. Also major figure in Queens-Brooklyn stolen car rings. Twice arrested in Suffolk, for dress factory burglary and using stolen credit cards to cash checks. Record of five arrests, all pending.

Maurice (Mike) Savino, 25, of 283 Irving Ave., Brooklyn. Colombo family associate. Nephew of mob boss Joseph Colombo. Has major waterfront contacts. Identified by FBI and tax agents as cigarette smuggler. Record of two arrests, conviction for transporting stolen ($300,000 worth) travelers checks.

Gondolfo (Fat Buddy) Sciandra, 41, of 8810 17th Ave., Brooklyn. Gambino family associate. Identified by Brooklyn detectives as major cigarette smuggler. Was a principal in $1,700,000 Murray Meat Packing bankruptcy fraud case. Record of 13 arrests, convictions for bankruptcy fraud and possession of fireworks.

—Renner

Newsday Photo by Dick Kraus

Phony tax stamps are displayed by Joseph H. Carter of North Woodmere, an investigations chief in the New York State Tax Department. The stamps come in singles or groups of 10 to stamp a whole carton.