Hawks top Gophers, capture Floyd

By Mark Dukes Gazette sportswriter

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. - The pig is back in Iowa's pen, and Hawkeye coach Hayden Fry was prepared to dress appropriately for the celebration.

Sparked by junior tailback Eddie Phillips' career-high 198 yards rushing on 36 carries, Iowa downed Minnesota, 21-16, Saturday night in a Big 10 football clash witnessed by 63,872 fans in the Hubert H Humphrey Metro dome.

The victory allowed lowa to reclaim the bronze statue of a pig named Floyd of Rosedale. Minnesota had owned Floyd since 1978 by winning the past four meetings. Before his post-game press conference, Fry changed from his white pants and black jacket into blue bib overalls, a red flannel shirt and a white cowboy hat trimmed with a red bandana. It had been reported that Minnesota Coach Joe Salem dressed in similar attire the past two years in practices prior to the low game. "All you great Minnesota writers and TV people . . . we're taking Floyd home where he belongs -Soooo-ey!!!" Fry exclaimed. "We gave as much effort in this game as any since I've been at Iowa. This was a great ball game and one of the hardest hitting games I've ever seen. We really needed a win for our program." Iowa, 4-3 overall, took a giant stride toward a fourth straight firstdivision finish in the Big 10. The Hawkeyes moved into a tie for third place with Ohio State in the league at 3-1. Minnesota continued its tailspin, losing its fourth straight game. The Gophers, who made the national rankings after opening with three victories, slumped to 1-4 in the conference. "We played as well as we could," said Salem, who lost for the first time in four games against Fry. "The same problems, interceptions and fumbles, hurt us again. We can't win until we correct these.

we had more injuries tonight that really destroyed us. Our offensive line is at rock bottom because of injuries and we're down to the scout team."

Phillips, whose previous career best was 101 yards last year against Indiana, ran for 114 yards in the second half and scored what proved to be the decisive touchdown. He followed crushing blocks by guard Loren Gerleman and receiver Dave Moritz on a slotback reverse, diving into the end zone after 14 yards to give Iowa a 21-9 cushion with 12:22 remaining.

With seven minutes left, the thousands of Iowan's began chanting,

"Iowa whipped us up front, but

"We want Floyd, We want Floyd." But the Gophers made things all too interesting in the waning minutes. Mike Hohensee, who completed 27-of-43 passes for 311 yards, moved Minnesota 89 yards in 12 plays by hitting seven passes for 90 yards. Alan Reid's two-yard run on second down and Jim Gallery's conversion trimmed Iowa's lead to 21-16 with 2:19 remaining.

Gallery, who kicked four field goals in Minnesota's 12-10 triumph in Iowa City last year, attempted an onside kick but the ball rolled out of bounds at the Iowa 42. Phillips gained nine yards in three carries before Reggie Roby, who kicked four times for a 41.0-yard average, punted 38 yards to the Minnesota

But the lowa defense, which sacked Hohensee four times and allowed the Gophers only two yards rushing, weren't about to let Minnesota out of the shadow of its goal. After an incompletion, Hohensee hit Lonnie Farrow for eight yards to the Gopher 19. But Hohensee slipped for a loss of four and, on fourth down, Mark Bortz and Tony Wancket sacked the Gopher quarterback for a 10-yard loss.

Iowa preferred not to rub in the victory, as Long fell on the ball at the Minnesota eight to end the game.

HERE COMES EDDIE - lowa running back Eddie Phillips (22) scampers four yards to the Minnesota three-yard line as a Gopher tackler tries to bring him down in the second quarter Saturday night in Minneapolis. Terrance Roberson (78) comes up from behind to help. Phillips ran for a total of 198 yards in lowa's 21-16 victory.

ISU has 'rocky' ride to smooth victory

BOULDER, Colo. — Even the most erstwhile Iowa State rooters must have figured they'd seen the last of Rocky Gillis as a factor in the Cyclones' football fortunes.

In fact, some of them might not have even known he was still on the team.

He is. Just ask the Colorado Buffaloes.

It looked like more of the same in the third quarter as ISU drove 75 yards at one point only to fumble the ball away in the end zone.

Then Archer and Gillis went to work. After a 34-yard punt return by Michael Wade gave the Cyclones the ball at the ISU 34, the Cyclones moved to the Colorado 41 in two plays.

On second and eight, Archer took a short drop into the pocket, fired a high spiral toward the right corner of the end zone, and watched as the mercurial Gillis ran under it and caught it for the tie-breaking score.

The breaks of the game

Misery loves company, so it wasn't surprising when two Cedar Rapids LaSalle gridders fell victim to painful injuries in the Lancers' victory Saturday. Fullback Andy McEowen (far left) discusses his broken ankle with his cousin and fellow LaSalle student, Bill Larsen, while quarterback Mark Steffen (above) mulls over his sprained ankle. McEowen will miss the remainder of the season, but Steffen is expected back. Story and another photo on page 7B.

BOULDER, Colo. --- The Iowa State Cyclones suffered a few more injuries Saturday against Colorado --- including one that was apparently inflicted by a teammate - but the big story of the game was a player who has been injured so many times he actually quit football earlier this season.

Senior flanker Rocky Gillis, with a history of tie. injuries to match anyone, returned to haunt the Colorado Buffaloes, catching two touchdown passes in ISU's 31-14 victory.

Gillis, of course, was once among the most promising young running backs in the Big Eight. But three knee operations /and plenty of onto the field for the start of the second half when hamstring pulls later, he seemed to be just a used-up old warhorse.

"My candid opinion is that I'm not counting on him playing," said ISU Coach Donnie Duncan before the current season. And, not surprisingly, before the season even began, Gillis quit the team. The injuries had gotten to be too much.

But a few weeks later, the 186-pound native of Pompano Beach, Fla. found himself asking the game, not at halftime. Duncan if he could come back.

"I felt it was my last chance," said Gillis. "I felt like I might never play football again if I didn't do

So, after a few weeks of doing nothing but hitting tennis balls, Gillis very quietly returned to the ISU roster. That was just after the team's 19-7 victory over lowa. He played briefly against Drake and Oklahoma --- "just enough to kind of ease me back into things," he said — and then really got his chance Saturday at Colorado. He responded by catching three passes for 99 yards, including touchdown grabs of 41 and 36 yards in the third quarter which snapped a 14-14

Regarding those injuries Saturday, probably the strangest was a concussion suffered by defensive tackle Chris Boskey.

Boskey and his teammates were ready to come teammate Dwayne Gilyard offered a few encouraging words and a pat on the back. Except Gilyard missed Boskey's back and nailed him in the back of the head with his helmet, knocking the 6-3, 255-pounder out.

Or, at least, that's what one student manager reported. Boskey, still slightly dazed after the game, recalled the incident as happening prior to

"It was definitely my best game," said Archer, who passed for 249 yards and had a hand in three of the team's four touchdowns.

"I was reading the coverage a little better today than I have in the past," he added. "They were giving us the curl patterns so we took those. and I think that kind of helped our confidence."

ISU Coach Donnie Duncan was pleased with the way his defense handled Colorado quarterback Randy Essington.

Essington, who Duncan called an NFL prospect last week, completed just 11 of 26 passes for 126 yards.

"We had a consistent pass rush on him," said Duncan. "And coverage-wise, I think we must have done a pretty good job, too. We had quite a few passes that were tipped away."

Cyclone defenders broke up six Colorado passes, including three by free safety Ronnie Osborne.

Dave Browne, Iowa nose guard, was asked if the two teams exchanged unkind words and hit harder than usual.

"Let's just say that was no love affair out there tonight," he smiled. "I'll tell you this Iowa-Minnesota game has taken on more meaning than the Iowa State contest. Why? Well, maybe it's because Iowa State is kind of intersectional, although it's still a very big game. The Minnesota game is almost life and death, which surprised me, because I'm from Georgia and have been at Iowa only two years "

"I thought Chuck Long played a great game," said Fry.

"It was one of the hardest hitting games I've ever seen. I don't know who Minnesota plays next week (Michigan), but if they were crippled up for this one, they're really in bad shape. They were carting them off left and right."

The Cyclones rebounded from the setback, though. They pounded 80 yards in 13 plays, consuming $5\frac{1}{2}$ minutes, to take a 14-7 lead. Archer scored the TD on a 10-yard rollout.

Colorado bounced right back. The Buffaloes scored just two plays later, in fact, as tight end Dave Hestera raced 37 yards with a screen pass and halfback Richard Johnson followed with a 47-yard scoring jaunt to tie it at 14-14.

The Buffs even had a chance to take a lead early in the second half as Jeff Donaldson returned a punt 58 vards to the ISU 27. But guarterback Randy Essington was intercepted by ISU's Chris Washington on the next play, ending the threat.
