Lester returning to Iowa as a Bull

By Melissa Isaacson
Assistant Sports Editor

There is no denying that Chicago is Ronnie Lester's town, but when the former Iowa basketball star and third-year Bull guard travels with his teammates to Cedar Rapids to take on the Milwaukee Bucks tonight, a big part of Ronnie Lester will be returning home.

Lester was born and raised in Chicago where he went on to become an all-stater at Dunbar High School.

But it was in Iowa that Ronnie Lester acquired celebrity status, and perhaps more important, Iowa was where he learned to handle it.

"I'm really looking forward to it (tonight's game)," Lester said. "The people in Iowa are just super people, especially the people at the university."

IT HARDLY SEEMS that three years have passed since Lester, very likely the most gifted player to put on an Iowa uniform, graced the center court of the Field House.

And so it was, with high hopes, that Lester began his career with the Chicago Bulls. His outlook was strong, but unfortunately for Lester and the Bulls in that first year, his knee was not.

Last year, Lester's second season with the Bulls, was by and large, his rookie year.

Lester averaged 11.6 points per game, playing in 75 games and starting in all but one. His best performance came against Dallas when he played 41 minutes, scoring 27 points, 13 assists, four steals, and connected on 9-for-12 field goals and 9-for-10 from the free throw line.

HE FINISHED the season ranked second in assists (4.8) and steals (1.0). He finished third in free throws with an 81.3 percentage.

The Bulls are currently 5-2 in the exhibition season. Tonight's game against the Bucks, the second of the pre-season, will be Chicago's last game before the regular schedule gets underway Friday night.

Lester started the first two games against Detroit and New York, both Chicago victories, averaging 13 points per game with 500 percent accuracy from the field. He sat out the next two, against San Antonio and Detroit, because of an ankle sprain.

The knee, which caused him to miss most of his first pro season, is doing well, according to Lester.

"This is the first season I've participated in two-a-day (practices)," he said. "My knee was giving me a little trouble at first, but it's pretty close to 100 percent now."

SOME OF LESTER'S teammates aren't quite so lucky. David Greenwood, who has been out for most of the pre-season with a torn calf muscle, is questionable for tonight. Also hobbled is guard Reggie Theus (injured toe).

In other Bull news, center Tom Burleson, who saw limited action in the pre-season and was bothered by a staph infection of the knee, was cut from the team after Friday night's game, a 137-136 overtime win over the San Antonio Spurs. Also cut was second-round draft choice Ricky Frazier of Missouri.

Furor continues over the Quintin Dailey situation. Dailey, the Bull's top draft choice in 1982 from the University of San Francisco, pleaded guilty to aggravated assault of a USF student nurse last year.

Chicago's Director of media information, Tim Hallam, said the protests have been "getting to be old hat."

"We've seen it all and heard it all," he said. "We're just trying to play basketball here and trying to live by what the court system dictates."

No, it wasn't a white sale at Macy's. The reason for the hurry across the Verazzano Bridge in New York City is the start of the

New York City Marathon which attracted over 16,000 runners Sunday. Eugene, Ore., resident Alberto Salazar won his third straight New York City Marathon, edging out Rodolfo Gomez by four seconds. See story, page 4B.

Hawkeyes sneak past Minnesota

Phillips carries Hawks to third Big Ten victory

By Jay Christensen
Sports Editor

MINNEAPOLIS — Iowa's football team scored an old-fashioned Big Ten conference victory Saturday night, taking to the ground in the sparkling new Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome, and polishing off Minnesota, 21-16, in front of 63,872 customers.

The Gophers were unable to stop Iowa back Eddie Phillips with any consistency and the Hawkeye ran around, through and between tacklers to gain 198 of Iowa's 324 total yards. Phillips was the key figure in 41 of Iowa's 77 offensive plays, carrying the ball 36 times and catching five passes. He also scored once.

Meanwhile, Iowa's defense contained the Gophers' attempts at running the ball, forcing Minnesota to seek yardage through the passing game. Strong-armed quarterback Mike Hohensee threw 43 times, completing 27 for 311 yards, but was intercepted four times.

Nonetheless, nothing came easy for the Hawkeyes. Iowa failed to deliver a knockout blow to the Gophers until 28 seconds remained, when tackle Mark Bortz wrestled down Hohensee on a fourth-and-six play at Minnesota's five-yard line.

THE GOPHERS, a team decimated by injuries, were going with a "scout team" offensive line, according to Coach (Smokey) Joe Salem. But some fancy footwork by Hohensee, who several times eluded rushers, and nifty receptions by flanker Dwayne McMullen, kept the Gophers within striking distance throughout the game.

"Iowa whipped us up front," Salem said. "We had more injuries tonight and that really destroyed us. Our offensive line is at rock bottom because of injuries."

"We kept coming back but we came out short. We played as well as we could, but the same problems, interceptions and fumbles, hurt us again. We can't win until we correct these."

It was Iowa's first victory at Minneapolis since 1976 and the Hawks' first win over the Gophers since 1977. For its efforts, Iowa now has in its possession Floyd of Rosedale, the traveling bronzed statue of a pig, which the winner of the game receives.

The Daily Iowan/Bill Paxson

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry decided to make Floyd of Rosedale feel at home after Iowa's 21-16 victory over Minnesota Saturday night. Fry donned the outfit prior to his press conference. The win was Fry's first over the Gophers.

Gopher, Iowa rivalry lives up to expectations

By Melissa Isaacson
Assistant Sports Editor

MINNEAPOLIS — Maybe it was The Dome. Or maybe it was the people inside of it — 20,000 Iowa fans and 40,000 Minnesota fans raising the teflon roof.

But quite likely, it was just the Hawkeyes and the Gophers bashing heads that made Saturday night in Minneapolis such an electric affair.

The two schools' marching bands struggled to outplay one another, while the spectators simply joined in, lustily singing their respective teams' fight song and ignoring the impertinent noise.

And all the while, Floyd, the bronze pig that these two institutions were fighting for, just sat waiting to be claimed like a hat in a cloakroom.

HE WAS PICKED UP all in due time, but not until the Gophers staged a late rally that must have made a good number of the thousands of Minnesota fans which left en masse with about five minutes left in the game, turn up their car radios.

The Gophers' efforts fell short, however, as Iowa won the pig and the game, 21-16.

Meanwhile, Iowa Head Coach Hayden Fry made the Minnesota press sorry they didn't have him to write about every day.

Field hockey team survives scare from Northwestern

By Mike Condon
Staff Writer

The Iowa field hockey team can be called survivors. The nation's top-ranked team had all it could handle from a scrappy Northwestern squad on Saturday, winning 3-2.

Combine that with a 4-1 win on Friday over Southern Illinois and a 6-0 victory against St. Louis University in Saturday's second game, Iowa stands at 17-0 on the season.

Iowa started fast against Northwestern, with junior Ellen Egan firing the ball past Wildcat goalie Marianne Sekela off a penalty corner from Anne-Marie Thomas at 11:08 of the first half, giving Iowa a 1-0 lead.

Thomas scored Iowa's second goal at 17:06 off a scramble in front of the Wildcat net, seemingly giving the Hawks a comfortable lead in Kinnick Stadium.

BUT IN A SPAN of 33 seconds, Northwestern's Nancy Fisher drove two consecutive penalty corners into the net, tying the score at halftime. Iowa's game-winning shot, with 4:53 gone in the second half, came from freshman Marcia Pankratz' shot off of a mad scramble in front of the Wildcat net. Pankratz was able to nudge the ball past Sekela, who narrowly missed stopping the shot.

Iowa's defense, led by defenders Sue Bury, Carol Barr and Lee Ann Detwiler along with sweeper Dawn Chamberlin, fought to clear the ball away from its net the rest of the half.

It was a relieved Iowa Coach Judith Davidson that spoke after the game. "We were lucky," she said. "They outplayed us in the second half. They dominated the midfield and cut off our passes. We weren't going to the ball as hard as they were and we just gave up too many corners for a team that plays them as well as Northwestern."

WILDCAT COACH Nancy Stevens left no doubt to what the strategy of her squad was during the game. "Sure we were trying to get corners," she said. "Nancy (Fisher) has an awesome shot and we try to set it up for her. But you have to give Iowa credit, they hung tough and it was their overall team speed that won the game for them. When it was close it seemed their player would just beat ours by a step."

Friday's game against Southern Illinois was on the Union Field and freshman Deb Brickley came off the bench with a damaged shoulder to tally twice for the Hawks in the first half. Bury and Egan added second half goals between an Ellen Massey score for the Salukis, lifting the Hawks to the 4-1 win.

St. Louis University was no match for Iowa as Thomas scored three times and Pankratz scored twice in a 6-0 victory. Before the game, five Iowa seniors, Barr, Bury, Lee, Leticia Rodriguez and Thomas were honored as the game marked their final home appearance.

"(My Iowa career) has been great and I wouldn't trade it for anything," Lee said, "except for a national championship."

Davidson's squad now looks down the road to a showdown with third-rated Old Dominion this Friday in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Iowa nets victory over Indiana

By Matt Gallo
Staff Writer

Although Iowa split two volleyball matches last weekend, the Hawkeyes continued to show improvement.

Iowa, 6-17, crushed Big Ten foe Indiana in three games Friday, 15-9, 15-11, 15-7 at the Field House, and lost a hard-fought decision to Drake Saturday, 15-13, 15-3, 8-15, 14-16. The scores in both matches showed considerable improvement over previous matches against the same two teams. Earlier in the season, Drake disposed of the Hawks in four games and it took Iowa four games to down the Hoosiers in the two school's first match.

"We've been improving every game," said sophomore setter Paula Becker. "From the beginning of the year we've improved so much it's unreal. I just wish we could do it all

UNFORTUNATELY for the Hawks, the season is over half finished and post-season play looks doubtful this year. However, the team's improvement is an encouraging sign for first-year Coach Sandy Stewart, who suffered through a dismal first half of the season. "It's like we're playing two different seasons. We're a totally different team than we were at the beginning of the year," she said. "We've definitely made an adjustment."

The Hawkeye victory Friday marked the second time Iowa has beaten Indiana this year, but the win doesn't count on Iowa's conference record. The Hoosiers (6-15) are also stumbling through a disappointing season, but unlike Iowa have not showed much progress.

INDIANA FRESHMAN Marcia Popp

is not pleased with her team's season thus far. "We haven't put it together. There's no specific thing, we just can't put our finger on it," she said. "I think Iowa has improved, but maybe we got worse, which is possible. I'm used to being on a winning team. This has been a hard adjustment."

In Saturday's Drake game at Des Moines, Iowa won the first two games before dropping the next three games. Both the fourth and fifth games were extended into extra points before the Bulldogs, 13-10, took both.

In the last game, Iowa's players thought they had the match won when a ball that hit the line was called out by the referee, giving Drake a second shot. Stewart refused to blame the officiating on her team's loss. Rather, she said an experienced team could have come back from the adversity.

DRAKE COACH Jill Hirschinger agreed. "If you think you're getting the bad breaks from the officials, you have to overcome it. Iowa kind of got emotional after the close calls," she admitted, saying that "several times Iowa could have or should have won the match."

Stewart has begun her recruiting search and plans to attend the Iowa volleyball tourney and several Nebraska district tourneys within the next couple of weeks. She said she escorted a Chicago area recruit around campus Sunday.

Stewart added that if her program is to improve, national recruiting is necessary because Iowa volleyball is not on the level of some other states.

The Hawks next action is Wednesday at Wisconsin. The Badgers lost to Indiana Saturday, and seem to be a team Iowa can beat.

Iowa, Fry greeted the media with a "Soooooey."

"Does he always do stuff like this?" whispered a Twin City reporter. "I've NEVER done this before," Fry explained. "But I figured if we're gonna take Floyd home, I may as well dress for the occasion. I didn't want to scare him and dress like a city slicker."

Minnesota Head Coach Joe Salem was understandably a bit more reserved. "The game turned out about the way I thought it would," Salem said. "It was one great college football game. It was a physical football game. It was a game of big plays. It was a game of inches. It was a game of Iowa and Minnesota."

Physical it was, Minnesota, a team that has been relying on members of the scout team because of injured starters, lost a bunch more to injuries Saturday night.

"Hayden was telling me he had 34 hurt this year," Salem said. "I said, 'I had 34 hurt this week.'"

FRY CALLED the game "vicious." Iowa running back Eddie Phillips, the game's leading rusher with 198 yards on 36 carries, reiterated.

"There was a lot of dirty talk out there," Phillips said. "It was a pretty physical game."

Phillips, a junior, missed the last two games against Minnesota, and said he was "very hyped up" Saturday night.

"We're all pretty happy," Phillips said, "and we wanted to get the pig back, but I kept saying, 'Forget the pig, let's get the win.'"

Fry didn't forget old Floyd. "I guarantee the folks of Iowa are happy to get Floyd back. You can't believe the volume of mail I got last week and this week telling me I may be from Texas, but that dad gum hog or pig is important. He's been up north too long. They said, 'He's probably frozen by now.'"

After Fry got a good look at him, he said, "I love him. He's the best looking pig I've ever seen."

After it was all over, Iowa players dragged him to the bus for the drive to the airport. After all, it had been a long time since Floyd visited Iowa City. The Hawkeyes just wanted to make sure he didn't lose his way.

Minnesota free safety Rick Whittus strains to stop on Iowa Hawkeye. The play set up Iowa's first touchdown in the 21-16 victory over Minnesota.

Hawkeyes

for his post-game press conference. After a rather long delay, Fry appeared for the interview dressed in a red flannel shirt, blue bib overalls and a cowboy hat with a red bandana gracing it.

SALEM APPARENTLY dressed in similar garb in practices prior to the Iowa game the past two years.

"All you great Minnesota writers and radio people and TV, I didn't want to make you look like liars... we're taking Floyd back home where he belongs," Fry said. Then he roared out, "Sooo-pig. Soooo-ey!"

When things settled down, Fry was questioned on a decision to go for a first down instead of punting on Iowa's initial drive. The Hawks had taken the ball on their own three and moved to Minnesota's 48, where Iowa faced a fourth and three situation. Phillips was stopped two yards short on the play.

"We knew what they would be in (defensively) and we just busted the play," Fry said. "We could have gotten the first down and kept the ball and established superiority." Hohensee then dropped back and found McMullen open for a 40-yard gain. Iowa's defense stiffened, but the Gophers' Jim Gallery booted a 25-yard field goal for Minnesota's only lead.

IN THE SECOND period, Iowa linebacker James Erb intercepted a Hohensee pass that was intended for tight end Mike Curtis and returned it eight yards to Minnesota's 37. A marathon 11-play drive, consuming 5 minutes, 52 seconds of clock ended with quarterback Chuck Long scoring on a two-yard run.

The Gophers then marched into field goal range for Gallery, who drilled a 45-yarder, making the score 7-6 at half.

The Hawks took a 14-6 lead in the third period as Long again muscled in from two yards away. The Gophers kept close, with Gallery kicking his third field goal, this one from 36 yards, slicing the lead to 14-9.

Phillips' 14-yard touchdown run made it 21-9, before Hohensee, throwing on nearly every down, directed the Gophers' to their only touchdown. Alan Reid busted across from two yards away, cutting the lead to 21-16.

After an attempted on-side kick failed, Minnesota stopped Iowa, forcing a punt. But Bortz' tackle of Hohensee secured victory for Iowa.

The Gophers were the conference's leader in both total offense and defense going into the game.

Minnesota, now 3-4 overall, faces a future that looks rather bleak, especially since they play at Michigan and Ohio State the next two Saturdays. Thirteen Gopher players suffered injuries in the Iowa game, adding to the 58 players that were previously hurt this year.

"(Minnesota) was crippled for this game, they're really in bad shape," Fry said. "They were carting a lot of folks off and that's bad."

Iowa, tied for third in the conference with a 3-1 record, hosts Illinois Saturday. Overall, Iowa is 4-3.

NFL union vows strike will continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The NFL Players Association reaffirmed its solidarity Sunday and vowed to continue its 34-day strike following a lengthy meeting of player representatives.

About 100 players met at union headquarters in Washington for nearly five hours and restated the resolution passed Aug. 30 in Chicago. Even dissident players who had spoken out against the strike and the union's wage scale demand either agreed with the resolution or remained quiet.

No date was set for resuming negotiations that broke off Saturday when mediator Sam Kagel walked out of the talks. Kagel withdrew after he was unable to coax either side off its hardline stand on the crucial issue of how wages will be distributed.

ED GARVEY, NFLPA executive director, said he will telephone chief NFL negotiator Jack Donlan to set up further talks "as soon as possible." Donlan is to meet Monday in New York with members of the league's executive committee.

Garvey also said he plans to meet Monday with William A. Lubbers, general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board. Lubbers said last week he will issue a complaint against the NFL for refusing to bargain in good faith.

Union attorney Joseph A. Yablonski said the "likelihood of an injunction is greater now than the talks have broken off." He also said the union will decide soon how it will proceed in court.

He said the NFLPA may ask for a rehearing of an appellate court decision that allows the league to challenge in various state courts the players' right to participate in the aborted series of union-sponsored all-star games. Another alternative would be to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

YABLONSKI ALSO SAID the union may go into federal court in Washington this week to test the validity of the standard NFL player contract. The union asked for an injunction two weeks ago on grounds that the contract is invalid, but Judge John Penn refused to rule, saying the matter needed further hearing.

The union's five-point resolution demands that the NFL Management Council: "provide immediate substantial wage increases... guarantee players a fair share of future NFL revenues; eliminate wage inequities; produce longer careers through elimination of incentives to cut older players for financial reasons; and reward performance through significant incentives."

The resolution did not mention the NFLPA demand for a union-administered wage scale.

UNION PRESIDENT Gene Upshaw said the demand is not necessarily for a wage scale, "but for something that addresses our five points. We think a wage scale does that, but we're open to listen to any other solution. We just don't see any other way."

Upshaw said the representatives indicated Sunday that their biggest desire is for a "good, fair collective bargaining agreement."

Bass keeps Illini alive in Big Ten race

United Press International

Tony Eason's arm has put Illinois into Big Ten title contention, but it was the foot of kicker Mike Bass that kept the Illini in the conference race.

Eason threw for a career-high 479 yards but it took Bass' fifth field goal of the day Saturday — a 46-yarder at the buzzer — to lift Illinois to a 29-28 win over Wisconsin.

The triumph, Illinois' fifth in six league games, kept the Illini one-half game behind front-running Michigan, which blasted Northwestern 49-14. The two teams meet in two weeks in Champaign.

Ohio State continued to rebound when it whipped Indiana 49-25. The Buckeyes are 3-1.

In other games, Michigan State remained without a win after dropping a 24-21 decision to Purdue while Iowa beat Minnesota, 21-16.

point, used Eason's wizardry to move into Bass' range for the final play.

"He said give me a shot at anything under 60," Illinois Coach Mike White said. "I was afraid to look."

Wisconsin, 3-2 in the conference, had used some razzle-dazzle to take a 28-26 lead when Randy Wright bounced a lateral pass to Al Toon, who turned and fired a touchdown pass to Jeff Nault. But the Badgers missed the extra point and lost the game.

"It's a hard one to lose," Wisconsin Coach

Dave McClain said. "It eats at you, but life does go on. That's about all I have to say."

Eason wasn't the only quarterback who had a big day. Michigan's Steve Smith threw for three touchdowns and scored twice — all in a 35-point second quarter — to give Michigan its 13th straight win over Northwestern.

BUT WILDCAT FRESHMAN Sandy Schwab set an NCAA record by completing 45 of 71 passes. However, he did not throw for a touchdown.

"It was a workmanlike performance by us in the first half. We did what we had to do," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler. "When you're trailing 42-0 at halftime, you expect the other team to come out throwing."

Northwestern Coach Dennis Green said Michigan was the best team his club, now 1-5 in the conference, has faced.

"They have that outstanding defense and they can hurt you in so many ways," Green said.

On the line

Wow, what a weekend.

The pig found its way home and a record 23 people filed perfect On the Line ballots, leaving the sports staff to use its uncomplicated tiebreaker to determine this week's winner of the prog.

And after little debate, Bret Lesan has been named the winner of the eight-gallon keg of Special Export being provided by Sub 'n Suds on North Linn Street. Lesan predicted a 26-24 Illinois victory over Wisconsin in the tiebreaker, the closest to the 29-28 Illini win, narrowly edging out five other contestants who were close, but came up with an empty keg when the foam cleared.

Following the first six weeks of competition, The Daily Iowan sports staff is running a dead heat. Sports Editor Jay Christensen and Assistant Sports Editor Steve Batterson each tallied 8-2 marks while Assistant Sports Editor Melissa Isaacson finished 7-3 during the weekend.

Salazar runs to 3rd marathon title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alberto Salazar won the New York City Marathon Sunday by twice as large a margin as he won the Boston Marathon this year, but that still was not enough to make him feel comfortable.

"I'm hoping that I'm not going to have to make a habit of sprinting at the end," said Salazar after his time of two hours, nine minutes and 29 seconds was enough to beat Rodolfo Gomez by four seconds. "I don't think my nerves can take it."

Salazar, the 24-year-old from Eugene, Ore., captured his third straight New York race, although it was considerably slower than his world record time of 2:08.13 a year ago. At Boston in April, he was forced to wait until the last half mile before beating Dick Beardsley by two seconds.

"THIS EFFORT WAS really much harder than I had in Boston," Salazar said. "The pace really quickened over the last three miles. I was scared to death, because I know Rodolfo is fast at the end.

"He always came back at me. When we entered Central Park, I knew that he was starting to weaken a little. With 600 yards to go, he tightened up and when I got a 20-yard lead on him quickly, I knew he wouldn't catch up."

The Cuban native said he couldn't force the pace because he suffered side stitches at about the 15-mile mark and "I felt like I had to relax, back off a little. I got a little nervous when Rodolfo got a 20-yard lead on me, but I couldn't let him get away."

THE FINISH CLIMAXED a dramatic duel between Salazar and Gomez, the 31-year-old Mexican, who ran virtually side by side. Gomez said he felt a pain in his stomach over the last three miles and was surprised when Salazar surged with a half-mile to go.

"The surprise was the spurt Alberto did," Gomez said through an interpreter. "My plan was to beat him at the end with a sprint with 200 meters left, but he surprised me when he increased the tempo so drastically. I didn't expect it."

The pair of runners entered a small dust storm near the end picked up by the strong headwinds they encountered all through the race and which forced the slow pace. Gomez said the storm "distracted" him and "I couldn't recover."

Salazar went to the lead in a pack of elite runners at the start and remained in control of the race throughout the 26 mile, 385-yard race.

In holding off Gomez, Salazar thus beat back his second strong challenge of the year.

Gomez, the 31-year-old veteran, finished second in 2:09.33 in falling victim to a late burst by Salazar for the second time in three years. In 1980, Salazar passed Gomez for good at the 20-mile mark.

 Special to The Daily Iowan

The challenge for women artists in the 1980s, according to Muriel Magenta, national president of the Women's Caucus for Art, is organization as a means to financial independence.

Magenta, along with three other educators, spoke on "Feminist Art Issues, Challenges and Strategies for the 1980s" last Friday as part of the Mid-America College Art Association's annual conference.

Magenta, who is an artist and teaches at Arizona State University, said that women artists need to learn the business of marketing. In order to be successful, she claimed, women must also be successful business people.

One of the strategies Magenta offered for securing financial independence was joining the Women's Caucus, an organization with 23 chapters nationwide, a lobby in Washington, D.C., and a newsletter that reproduces the work of members as well as providing news of interest to women artists.

In becoming members of such organizations, Magenta said, women can gain the skills and contacts necessary to succeed in the marketplace.

His name may not summon a familiar style or a famous painting but Jack Larsen's fabric designs have probably had greater influence on the environment created for business and entertainment than those of most artists or designers.

Larsen's works include theater curtains for the Metropolitan Opera House, fabric for the Sears Banking Tower in Chicago, the leather seats used in Braniff airplanes and wall panels for the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas-Ft. Worth. He has also designed the stage curtain for the Center auditorium at Wolftrap Farm, Virginia.

In two sessions during the Mid-America College Art Association Conference weekend at the UI, Larsen outlined the development of his worldwide interior design business, which now has over 100 production facilities in 32 different countries.

In spite of the international flavor of his work, Larsen is a native-born American.

Entertainment

Music

Professor Peter Schickele presents the assorted works of the Intimate P.D.Q. Bach, including "Hansel and Gretel and Ted and Alice" and the "Abassoonata" for bassoon and piano, tonight at Hancher Auditorium. Lau guaranteed for all — and music, too. 8 p.m.

At the Bijou

First things first: Though Taxi zum Klo... arrive for its showing last weekend, it will be rescheduled at some point in the semester. And John Huston's The Maltese Falcon, with Humphrey Bogart, Mary Astor, Peter Lorre and Sydney Greenstreet will be reshown today at 7 p.m. On with the show.

We return tonight to the golden days of silent westerns, when men were men, and horses were their best friends — and nothing more. The Toll Gate (1920) presents William Hart as the mythic good-bad outlaw, while Riders of the Purple Sage (1925), an adaptation of the Zane Grey novel, stars Tom Mix.
