Kamaritos, Yokas run hard to win Iowa City Marathon

By Brad Zimanek
Staff Writer

Rex Karamitos and Marsha Yokas both pulled up winners in Sunday's Iowa City MS Marathon.

Karamitos and Yokas stole the show in the race sponsored by the Iowa City Striders with their marathon victory times of two hours, 26 minutes and seven seconds and 2:57:08, respectively.

Karamitos' victory time easily outdistanced that of Kim Sprain who placed second and ran a time of 2:33:30. Jim Breitenbucker placed third with a marathon time of 2:34:06.

"I had to tie my shoe after the first mile and that slowed me up a bit," Karamitos said. "Sprain had a minute lead on me by six miles and he still had 40-second lead on me as we reached the 11-mile point.

"AT THE BEGINNING, I didn't get a good start and I was surprised when he (Sprain) didn't come with me as I passed him just about the halfway point."

Karamitos, a Mason City, Iowa, native, is a graduate student at Mankato State in Minnesota. His goal as far as running is concerned is to qualify for the Olympic Trials Marathon which will be held in Buffalo, N.Y., two months before next year's Olymp-pic games. Karamitos needs a marathon time of 2:19:05 to qualify for the Buffalo event.

"Actually, I wanted to run about a 2:20 (Sunday) and the pace felt pretty slow," he said. "I was kind of stuck in a rut at 5:35's (pace per mile) when we started to run 5:15's and 5:20's in the middle of the race," Karamitos said.

"I RAN WITH this guy for 20 miles and I found out he was a cross country runner from Augustana College and he really helped me up to 20 miles. If he would have continued running it really would have been a close race.

Karamitos has run an average of 110 to 120 miles per week since last June. His ultimate goal is to run a 2:15 marathon and if he doesn't qualify for the See Marathon, page 3B

Rex Karamitos, winner of Sunday's Iowa City MS Marathon, approaches the finish line with a time of 2 hours 26 minutes and 7 seconds, six minutes ahead of Kim Sprain who took second place in the 26 and-a-half mile race.

Hawkeyes stunned by No. 8 Wildcats

By Mike Condon
Assistant Sports Editor

It was the perfect plan: all Iowa had to do was defeat Northwestern, a team it had earlier defeated, 4-0, in Evanston, Ill., to earn not only an outright Big Ten championship but a possible chance to host an NCAA satellite tournament this weekend.

But somebody forgot to tell the Wildcats.

Northwestern used a hounding defense and a new penalty corner strategy to upset No. 3 Iowa, 4-3 in overtime, Saturday afternoon before a crowd of around 250 in Kinnick Stadium.

THE WIN GAVE Northwestern a share of the Big Ten title with Iowa but the Hawkeyes will receive the automatic bid to the NAAs as a conference champion on a statistical basis. Northwestern will enter the tournament as an at-large team.

The Wildcats scored early in the first half as sophomore Lisa Griswold took a back pass from Jennifer Averill and fired the ball past Iowa goaltender Joan Behrends.

The Wildcats continued to pressure the Hawkeyes throughout most of the half. But Iowa finally got a penalty corner late in the half and senior Ellen Egan cashed in to tie the score, 1-1, at halftime.

In the second half, the game became, "a great spectator game," according to Northwestern Coach Nancy Stevens. Both teams moved the ball up and down the field putting pressure on at every opportunity.

IT APPEARED IOWA had what it took to put the game away early in the half. Sophomore Debra Brickley ran a ball down the endline and centered the ball into the circle where Marcia Pankratz, surrounded by three defenders, somehow guided the ball past goaltender Robin Clark to put Iowa up 2-1.

Within the next minute, Iowa was pressing again but Egan's shot got by Clark only to glance off the goalpost. The near miss gave the Wildcats a chance to regroup.

The teams moved up and down the field until the final 10 minutes of regulation when the fireworks began. Griswold got her second goal of the game off a penalty corner. She took a pass from the top of the circle and put it behind Behrends, tying the score, 2-2.

IOWA DIDN'T TAKE long to retaliate. Sophomore Mary Koboldt took the ball at mid-field, raced around four Wildcat defenders and put the ball past Clark on the wide side to put the Hawkeyes back in front.

But with time winding down Averill tied the game on another two-pass penalty corner play, beating Behrends on the back side and the game went into overtime.

It didn't take Northwestern long. About halfway through the 10-minute extra session, the Wildcats got another corner opportunity and the result was almost predictable. Averill again got

Big Red turns blue after 34-14 Iowa win

By Jill Hokinson
Staff Writer

MADISON, Wis. — It was definitely a blue Saturday for the Wisconsin Badgers when the Iowa football team ventured into "Big Red" country to play football.

The Hawkeyes beat Wisconsin, 34-14, in a game the Badgers believed they could play well in and even win, Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain said.

"We felt we could play with Iowa," McClain said. "I think what hurt us was we started off and played so poorly on defense."

McClain said it wasn't just the Badger defense that played poorly, the entire team didn't play well. The Badgers' biggest problem in the game was the number of mental mistakes made by the players, he added.

"IT WAS JUST mistakes that give a lost of containment," defensive co-captain Brian Marrow said.

Because of mental mistakes by the Badger defense, Iowa jumped out to an early lead in the first half by scoring four touchdowns and allowing Wisconsin to cross midfield only once during the first two quarters.

"We got behind by letting Iowa come right out on us," fullback Joe Armentrout said. "We lacked intensity in the first half but played pretty good from what I saw in the second half." Armentrout went out of the game in the first half with a sprained ankle.

According to defensive tackle Scott Bergold, it was a very aggravating game and the 54 Badger team will have to play better in the future as a unit if they want a chance at a bowl bid.

"IT WAS VERY frustrating in the first half because Long was hitting everything he threw," Bergold said. "It was frustrating because we knew we can beat Iowa and we stopped them on a few plays but then they would get the big first down."

Bergold said it was 14th-ranked Iowa's passing and defensive play that aided them in the victory against Wisconsin.

Besides the lack of intensity, center Dan Turk said offensively the Badger team couldn't get going at the beginning of the game. "But it was mainly our attitude," he said. "We got down after we didn't score the first couple of times."

Quarterback Randy Wright said the youthfulness of the team was also a factor in the loss. "The young players when they are given confidence and are favored to win they play better," he said. "And, the young players think it's nothing to lose when they are not

MADISON, Wis. — For the opposition, Iowa football Saturdays seem to be getting longer and longer.

Not only is Hawkeye quarterback Chuck Long rewriting the Iowa record book, the Iowa defense has been forcing some long afternoons for the opposing offenses.

The Wisconsin Badgers and the eight bowl scouts in attendance found that out Saturday at Camp Randall Stadium as the 14th-rated Hawkeyes demolished any hopes of what could have been a close game by pouncing on the Badgers, 34-14, after building up a 27-0 advantage in the first half.

"In looking at the films, for three quarters we played about as fine a game that we've played offensively," Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said Sunday. "Our offensive team did an excellent job. By late in the third quarter, we were pretty much dominating their defense."

"DEFENSIVELY, WE jumped on them early and they didn't really threaten until in the third quarter — late," Fry said.

Long had a field day picking apart the Badger pass defense, which was rated as the Big Ten's best going into the game, by setting six new Iowa standards. He set Iowa career and season marks in three categories; yards passing, touchdown passes and total offense.

The junior from Wheaton, Ill., now has 2,240 yards in his career and 3,932 in his career, beating old marks set by Gary Snook. Long has 13 touchdown passes this season and 24 in his career, beating a season mark he shared with Randy Duncan and Duncan's career mark.

standard held by Ed Podolak also fell by the wayside as Long now has 2,222 yards this year and 4,035 in his career at Iowa.

LONG ALSO TIED his own record of 11 consecutive pass completions, by connecting on his first 11 attempts. The old mark was set in the Peach Bowl last season.

The Hawkeye game plan was simple, according to Fry. "Our strategy was to confuse (Badger quarterback) Randy Wright, if possible," Fry said, "but I don't want to say how we did it. We seem to rise to the occasion against Wisconsin in recent years defensively... I know last year we got seven interceptions. About this time of year, our defense gets."

The strategy worked. The Hawkeyes held Wisconsin to a total of 126 yards in the first half, only 47 of them rushing.

Long said he can understand how Wright, who threw five interceptions against the Hawkeyes last season, must feel. "There's something about our defensive schemes that gives him problems," Long said. "Our defensive scheme is one of the hardest defensive schemes to throw against and Randy had a tough time reading our defense ... and it showed."

THERE WAS NO confusion on the part of Iowa's Eddie Phillips, who led Iowa in rushing with 162 yards. "He looked like the Eddie Phillips of old — slashing, twisting and turning," Fry said.

The Chicago native said he was ready to have his chance, especially since starting running back Owen Gill missed most of the afternoon nursing an injury.

"I just go out and try to do the best I can," Phillips said. "I knew Owen wasn't going to play so I decided that I would have to pick up the slack."

Phillips might have known Gill wasn't going to play, but Wisconsin didn't. "We put Owen Gill in the ballgame just so that Wisconsin wouldn't know he was hurt," Fry said. "We could have played him in an emergency, but I didn't want to take the chance. He should be at full speed next week."

FOR THE AFTERNOON, the Hawkeyes amassed 501 yards in total offense, including 266 via the airways. Fry said Sunday that Iowa decided to pass because the Badgers hadn't been sufficiently tested this season.

"Their pass defense has always been outstanding," Fry said. "We knew if we could run the ball we could keep them off-balance. I knew they really hadn't been tested as to not knowing when the other team was going to throw the ball."

"Wisconsin was more of a team that likes to read the quarterback's eyes," Long said. "They would flow where the quarterback was looking first. So I'd read 'em off a little bit and then go the other direction."

The Hawkeyes came out of the shoot fast, scoring on their first three possessions.

Phillips took a hand off up the middle for a two-yard touchdown run early in the first quarter.

THE HAWKEYES' SECOND touchdown came on a play that may be destined for a season highlight's film. Under heavy pressure, Long scrambled back and somehow released the ball, dragging a pair of Wisconsin defenders with him.

Awaiting the pass in a crowd was Ronnie Harmon, who Fry said Sunday was also injured. Harmon weaved, zigged and zagged his way through the Badger defense and just barely squeaked into the corner of the end zone for an Iowa touchdown that left the Badgers with a 14-0 deficit and left Badger Coach Dave McClain with a headache.

"It was the worst combination of everything," McClain said. "We did not move the ball and we did stop them. We did not have any pressure on their quarterback. "Long is a good quarterback and his scrambles were big," he said. "We did a terrible job in that aspect."

IN THE SECOND quarter, the Hawkeyes added another pair of touchdowns — one on Long's five-yard pass to Dave Moritz and the second on a 20 yard pass to tight end Jonathan Hayes, his first touchdown reception of the season.

In the second half, Iowa managed to score its final touchdown on a six-yard pass from Long to Mike Hufford and Tom Nichol's fourth extra point of the day (a poor snap deprived him of a chance after Iowa's fourth touchdown) gave Iowa a 34-0 lead and Fry used the Hawkeye reserves throughout most of the fourth quarter.

During that time, Wisconsin scored two touchdowns, the first on a 44-yard pass play from Wright to Al Toon, who picked up 136 yards receiving. Marck Harrison scored the Badgers' second touchdown on an 11-yard run up the middle late in the fourth frame.

FRY WAS PLEASED with the win, but unhappy about that behavior of the Badger fans and he said it wasn't the first time the Hawkeyes have had trouble in Madison.

"They were terrible in every way, shape and form," Fry said. "From the obscenities to spitting on our captains as they went out for the coin toss. They poured beer, wine and schnapps. I knew it was schnapps because I could smell the peppermint in my hair."

With a 7-2 record, a third consecutive bowl invitation appears imminent, providing that Iowa wins its last two games against a 4-1 Michigan State team and 1-8 Minnesota.

"It puts us one step closer," Fry said about a possible bowl berth. "But I'm really locked into playing one game at a time. That is really the only way to do it."
