Fry 'tickled to death' with Gator Bowl invitation

By Thomas W. Jargo
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry said, "I'm popping my buttons," Saturday as he accepted, on behalf of his 9-2 Hawkeye squad, an invitation to play Florida in the 39th-annual Gator Bowl Classic on Dec. 30 in Jacksonville, Fla.

Bill Nimnicht, president of the Gator Bowl Association, and John Lanahan, a long-time member of the Gator Bowl selection committee, extended the official invitation to Fry immediately following Iowa's 61-10 trouncing of Minnesota Saturday in Kinnick Stadium.

Sporting an alligator decal on his jacket, the fifth-year Iowa coach was more than happy to "accept with honor" the invitation to take his Hawkeye squad to their third consecutive bowl game.

Minnesota's Golden Gophers were no match for the Hawkeyes Saturday as Iowa romped to a 61-10 victory and a trip to Gator Bowl. Florida will be Iowa's opponent on Dec. 30 in Jacksonville. Page 1B

"WE GOT A great football team," Fry said. "I've never been more proud of the football team this season because we've overcome a lot of tragedy, injuries, hardships and nit-picking ... to come out 9-2 and play against a great team like the University of Florida in one of the best bowl games in the nation. I'm popping my buttons."

Area agencies plan variety of trips from Iowa

Now that the invitation to the Gator Bowl has been extended to the Iowa football team, Hawkeye fans can start making plans for the trip down to Jacksonville, Fla., over the Christmas-New Year's holiday.

To help out the many Iowa fans who will be making the trip to the Gator Bowl, area travel agencies are putting together trips to the bowl contest that will include transportation, hotel and tickets for the game.

Because of the Christmas season, people who don't plan their trip through a travel agency will probably have a difficult time getting a seat on a plane and getting a hotel room, said Mary Kasper, manager of the AAA Travel Agency.

THERE ARE ALSO very few commercial flights to Florida around Dec. 30 that have any seats available, said Julie Hender of the American Travel and Tour Inc.

"There's virtually nothing left in commercial air," Hender said. "For regular scheduled aircrafts to Jacksonville or Orlando, it's impossible to get discount tickets. It would cost about $600 just to get down there and back, not including the hotel."

Design change wait may kill hotel funds

By Mark Leonard
Staff Writer

Iowa City might wind up with nothing but one big hole in the ground if design plans for the $12.3 million downtown Holiday Inn International are not finished to the satisfaction of Iowa City Council members within the next three weeks.

In particular, Councillor David Perret, a member of the city's Hotel Steering Committee, is worried that the $2.1 million federal urban development action grant (UDAG) targeted for the Iowa City project might be in jeopardy because of delays in getting satisfactory design plans from hotel developer Vernon Beck.

"We have to show that all parties are agreeable to the UDAG contract," Perret said. "And obviously we don't have a final design yet, so it's pretty hard to get agreement from everybody."

"It's sort of a formality, but the whole process can become unglued here. I'm pretty concerned about the whole situation. There's a lot of work that still needs to be done and we may have lost a lot of time because of all the design changes," Perret said.

BECK HAS TOLD city officials the 178-room Holiday Inn, which will be located next to the Iowa City Public Library, should be finished by December 1984.

Councillor John McDonald said it is now up to Beck to satisfy council members. "I guess there is a problem that could be coming down the road for us, but the responsibility to get those things done lies with the developer. I, for one, am not going to accept a design I am uncomfortable with just to get some papers in on time for the UDAG grant."

McDonald and other council members have been concerned that a pedestrian passageway through the hotel has been narrowed to a point where it will discourage pedestrian traffic into the downtown mall area.

If the city loses the loan from the department of Housing and Urban Development, McDonald said it is up to Beck to find additional sources of financing.

Perret said the city and Beck must try to work out all the design problems before Jan. 1. He said the U.S. Congress is working on limiting cities' use of industrial revenue bonds (IRBs).

Any change, Perret added, could have an effect on the willingness of bankers to invest in the project.

"It's a very, very big concern right now ... since approximately $7.5 million of the hotel is going to be funded by IRBs," he said.

City Manager Neal Berlin said the city will be "making every effort" to get the UDAG papers in before Congress makes any changes in IRB policy.

"AS SOON AS possible we've got to get everything together," he said. "That way we won't be affected by any changes Congress decides to make."

Perret said a new architect, Richard Wheeler, has been assigned to the project. Wheeler replaces Ed Kinney, who had worked on the hotel design from the start.

After meeting with Wheeler twice last week, Perret said, "I think the new architect has a pretty good idea of what our concerns are and I think he is making efforts to make the design more acceptable for everyone."

Perret declined to comment on why Beck had replaced Kinney.

"Quite frankly, I'm becoming very skeptical of this whole situation," Councillor John Balmer said. McDonald added, "I don't know why there is suddenly all these changes by the developer in the design. I thought we were rather explicit in what we wanted."

In addition to satisfying council members, Perret said the hotel design must also be approved by the State Historic Preservation Office because the hotel will be located next to the College Block Building, which is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Plaza Centre owners may sue over plans

By Mark Leonard
Staff Writer

An attorney representing the owners of Plaza Centre One has written a letter to the Iowa City Council stating that his clients "would be entitled to damages" unless design plans for the downtown hotel are changed.

William Meardon stated that design modifications made in plans for the Iowa City Holiday Inn International Hotel now under construction are "completely unacceptable."

Plaza Centre One houses several businesses and stores in a building located at the corner of College and Dubuque streets.

Meardon said recent changes in the hotel's configuration would prevent people using the Dubuque Street parking ramp from locating Plaza Centre One. He also wrote that the hotel would impede pedestrian access to Plaza Centre One by "compelling" customers to enter the mall through a narrow walkway or possibly through the hotel's lobby.

Meardon went on to state: "These access proposals change the original plan upon which my clients relied and invested substantial amounts of personal effort and money. This change is completely unsatisfactory to my clients and will result in a 'taking' of valuable property right."

"THE PURPOSE OF this letter is to advise you that my clients oppose the change being made and object to it. Also, it is our judgment ... my clients would be entitled to damages."

Councillor John Balmer said Sunday he would like the city's legal staff to investigate the matter. "I would have hoped this would have been an area that we

'Day After' elicits strong national reaction

United Press International

Americans by the millions gathered in homes, churches and schools Sunday to watch "The Day After," a television portrayal of atomic annihilation. The administration insisted the true-to-life drama would build support for President Reagan.

Many conservatives ripped the $7-million movie as propaganda against Reagan's arms buildup. Anti-nuclear groups hailed it as a public service. Psychiatrists, worried about high anxiety and nightmares, warned children should not watch it.

Thousands of group viewings were scheduled as the ABC program became a national television event on a par with the Super Bowl.

"The whole point is that we've got to confront (the nuclear threat) directly," scriptwriter Ed Hume says. "It's like the bogeyman in a dark room. You have to turn around and look it right in the face."

The network would not predict how many people would watch the prime-time movie, but some in the media offered estimates up to 70 million — about a third of the population.

"The Day After," three years in the making, depicts the destruction of Kansas City in a nuclear war and the nightmarish struggle by survivors 38 miles away in Lawrence, Kan.

The 2½ hour show gives no hint who starts the war, but the fictional results are graphic and the message is clear:

It could happen today and no one is safe.

Nuclear freeze advocates see the film as a milestone for their cause, with Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass, comparing its probable impact to Martin Luther King Jr.'s 1963 civil rights march on Washington.

CANDLELIGHT vigils were held in both Kansas City and Lawrence. "The people attending are from a wide range of people," said Beth Seberger, coordinator of the Kansas City vigil.

"We'll have many middle-aged who are concerned for their grandchildren. Many will attend for religious convictions." A Toledo, Ohio nuclear freeze group released 200 black helium balloons in front of a Teledyne Inc.

plant that makes Cruise missile engines. Group spokesman Andy Coleman said the path of the balloons symbolizes the path of nuclear fallout.

Reagan saw a preview of the film last week and a White House spokesman said he would not watch it again Sunday night.

The White House waged a counteroffensive, producing top officials for television interviews to promote Reagan's arms control policies.

"It's going to reinforce support for the president," Kenneth Adelman, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"I do not think there's anxiety in the See Movie, page 8 had looked at prior to approving the design of the hotel. It's important that all parties get together on this project."

Balmer added that the city must make certain the hotel is designed according to its request. "I think it is crucial that we get our understanding down with the developer regarding the design of the hotel. I'm very concerned about the whole situation regarding the hotel."

In addition to protesting design changes, Meardon's letter states that there "appears to be a substantial problem with adequate fire protection for the Plaza Centre One building as well as its occupants."

Mayor Mary Neuhauser said the city will "certainly provide adequate fire protection for everyone downtown."

She would not, however, comment on other points in Meardon's letter because the city is "threatened with litigation."

Balmer said Fire Chief Robert Keating told council members fire protection would be provided for the area.

"It was a very significant question that we looked at," Balmer said. "I'm just going to have to take my fire chief's opinion on the matter."

Bowl

players, the fans and the students... to see this program turn around and really look like one of the better football programs in the nation. I think we can compete with anybody in the country."

The Gator Bowl Classic, which has a pay-off of $600,000 to each of the participating schools, is the sixth-largest bowl game in the country, taking a back seat only to the five so-called "major bowls" that are played annually on New Year's Day.

Iowa could pull quite a profit from this year's bowl game. According to Big Ten rules, Iowa does not have to share its $600,000 pay-off from the Gator Bowl with the rest of the league because the amount doesn't exceed the $750,000 barrier.

ANY BIG TEN team participating in a bowl game with a pay-off of over $750,000 must share it with the remaining teams in the league. Therefore, Iowa will receive a share of the money from the Sugar, Fiesta and Rose bowls — in which Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois are competing in respectively.

The Iowa-Florida match-up on Dec. 30 will be nationally televised by ABC (KCRG-9), beginning at 7 p.m. It will be the only game on television that evening, and Fry sees it as an advantage to not battle another game for prospective viewers.

"We're just delighted and tickled to death to be in the Gator Bowl," he said. "In fact, that's really our preference as far as a place to go."

The Hawkeye players will receive about 10 days off before getting back together as a unit Wednesday, Nov. 30, to begin preparations for the Gator Bowl, Fry said. "I told them I didn't even want to see them for awhile," Fry said.

During his Sunday teleconference, Fry said he was "very optimistic" that quarterback Chuck Long, who missed the Minnesota game with an ankle sprain, would be healthy in two weeks when the Hawkeyes begin practice again.

FRY IS NOT certain of the extent of the injuries to wide receiver Dave Moritz (knee), linebackers George Davis (ankle) and Kevin Spitzig (knee) and defensive end Paul Hufford (knee). All four went down with their injuries against Minnesota, but are expected to return for the bowl game.

The Hawkeyes will practice in Iowa City until about "two or three days prior to Christmas," Fry said. At that time, they will head south to Daytona Beach to practice in the Florida beach before settling in Jacksonville on Dec. 26.

"Going to a bowl game really helps the development of the young people," Fry said.

"We really need to have a couple of full-fledged scrimmages with our young people between now and the Gator Bowl game to get in additional experience. Going to a bowl game really gives us a lot of help in preparing for spring training."

Running back Eddie Phillips, who became Iowa's all-time leading rusher against Minnesota, thinks the Hawkeyes will be "more confident" going into their third straight bowl.

"We know we can win if we go out there and play hard and practice hard and look good doing it," Phillips said. "If we just keep our heads level, we should be all right."

together trips to the Gator Bowl that they consider to be reasonably priced. Trips range in price from a couple of hundred dollars when traveling by bus to about $500 when traveling by plane.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION is offering a trip that is different from the two previous bowl trips sponsored by the association.

People on that trip will stay at the Amelia Island Plantation, located 35 miles northeast of Jacksonville. The resort covers 900 acres of land and is made up of condominiums and villas.

The resort also has a 27-hole golf course, tennis courts, horseback riding, hiking, four miles of beach and several restaurants within the resort.

Prices for the five-day trip start at $571 per person and go up to about $900 per person, depending on room accommodations. The cost covers air travel, transportation to and from the game and a ticket to the game.

The AAA Travel Agency is offering a three-day trip to Jacksonville for $519. Those going on the trip will spend two nights in Jacksonville and have end zone seats for the game.

ANOTHER TRIP will be offered by American Travel and Tour Inc. The trip will cost from $550 to $600 and will also include a New Year's Eve dinner and a brunch on New Year's Day. Travelers will also be staying at the Sheraton St. Johns in Jacksonville.

Meacham Travel Service is also planning a trip to the Gator Bowl, which will cost between $500 and $550 for a three-day trip.

Besides transportation, hotel accommodations and tickets to the game, the travel agency will also offer an optional sightseeing trip to Disney World.

People not buying a packaged trip to the Gator Bowl will be able to get tickets for the game through the Iowa athletic department.

According to Bill Nimnicht, president of the Gator Bowl Association, Iowa probably will be allotted 15,000 tickets and maybe as many as 20,000 tickets for the game. There will also be no restrictions on the number of tickets each person can buy to the Gator Bowl, which is expected to seat over 82,000 persons for the game this year.

The Iowa Ticket Office will send applications for tickets to season ticket holders today. Those who don't receive an application should send $18 per ticket plus $1 for handling charges to the Iowa Ticket Office, Carver-Hawkeye Arena, Iowa City, Ia., 52242.

Study portrays Iowa 'the day after'

DES MOINES (UPI) — A United Nations study says nuclear war between the superpowers would spare most Iowans the "thermal effects of nuclear explosions," but would indirectly affect the state in "devastating" ways.

A "limited" attack would result in up to 14 million deaths nationwide, but about half of the unsheltered Iowans would survive bombings of likely Midwest targets, the study says.

The research describes a "post attack period" in which survivors would be forced to deal with serious medical and ecological impacts, including: infectious diseases, psychological stresses, health care limitations and contaminated crops and water supplies.

The study is titled "War and Peace and Iowa," a publication created by the Board of Directors of the Iowa Division, United Nations Association-USA, "as a contribution to public debate on Iowa's role in war and peace."

Iowa's "post attack" research focuses on two possible targets — the Strategic Air Command, Omaha, Neb., and ICBM base headquarters near Cheyenne, Wyo.

FALLOUT FROM radiation over the Omaha-Council Bluffs area would proceed east across Iowa, "likely to parallel Interstate 80 and Iowa Highway 92" if usual wind directions prevailed, the study says.

Home basements could reduce radiation levels to one-tenth, but the dosage would be sufficient to kill at least half the people so exposed — mostly infants, children and the elderly, the study says.

Fallout sheltering would be required for about a month's time after an attack on the Cheyenne headquarters. The study says conditions would be "stressful" inside the shelters and worse outside the shelters.

"Acute psychotic reactions, panic and the outbreak of local hostilities can be expected to occur at an increased rate throughout the entire crisis."

A shortage of medical supplies, especially equipment to treat extensive third-degree burns would cause severe problems.

"Survivors of even a 'limited' nuclear war will suffer increased incidences of leukemias and solid cancer tumors for up to 40 years after the war, due to radiation exposure."

"Iowa crops not yet harvested would become heavily contaminated," as would water supplies, the study says. Changes in weather patterns due to increased dust from ground-level nuclear detonations further harm the re-establishment of agriculture.

"It cannot be emphasized too strongly," the study concludes, "that a scientific analysis of some predictable and unpredictable events of nuclear war in no way begins to depict the magnitude of horror and human suffering that would result ..."

"Reversal of the nuclear arms race and prevention of nuclear war are top priority issues of our time; issues of survival."

administration about the film," he said.

The Rev. Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, branded the film a "blatant political statement in favor of disarmament" and threatened a boycott of the program's sponsors.

The Conservative Young Americans for Freedom planned to picket ABC affiliates nationwide and mustered about 75 demonstrators for an early rally at the network's New York headquarters Sunday afternoon. Police said the gathering broke up without incident after about an hour-and-a-half.

And the conservative New Hampshire Sunday News, in Manchester, N.H., in an editorial Sunday, called the program "an outrageous propaganda attempt. If we didn't know better, we'd be tempted to explain the recent public absence of Soviet Boss Andropov as related to last-minute editing chores on 'his' movie!"

But the film's scriptwriter, Ed Hume, denied the film takes any particular point of view.

"THIS IS NOT a statement about the nuclear freeze. The whole point is that we've got to confront this directly. It's like the bogeyman in a dark room. You have to turn around and look it right in the face," said Hume, in an interview in Boston.

ABC, which insists the movie takes no political position, sent viewing guides to all of the nation's junior and senior high school. They include questions for class discussions this week.

Several ABC affiliates planned call-in shows afterward. WBRC-TV in Birmingham, Ala., planned to have doctors standing by to take calls from mentally-distraught viewers.

A number of psychiatric associations recommended that children under 12 not watch the movie and that no one see the movie alone. They also recommended discussions immediately after the show as an emotional release.

During the next several days, both anti-nuclear and pro-defense groups plan to air TV ads aimed at pushing their cause.

Stewart defeats Hawkeye spikers

By Robert Ryser Staff Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. — Coach Sandy Stewart said Saturday night he felt the Hawkeye volleyball squad didn't come to the Final Four competition for nothing — despite a round, three-game loss to Purdue, Friday night, 15-10, 15-11, 5-15.

Stewart was named Big Ten Coach of the Year at the conclusion of the championship Saturday night, and Iowa coach Kathy Greisheim was honored by being named the best freshman of the year.

Greisheim also made the Ten second team along with teammate, junior middle blocker Dee Ann Davidson. Davidson was also named to the league all academic team.

AFTER THE SELECT announcement, an excited group of Hawkeye players and coaches flocked around their second-year coach and exchanged congratulations for one of the most memorable volleyball seasons in Iowa history.

The Hawkeyes virtually outperformed their regular season losses to Indiana and Ohio State with an impressive display of teamwork against powerhouse Purdue Saturday night.

Surprisingly, the Boilermakers who hadn't lost a regular season Big Ten match in years, watched a two-game widdled away as the Northwestern Wildcats came back before a record crowd over 1,000 to win the five-championship match.

There were a little under 1,000 fans on hand to watch the Hawkeyes and Purdue before Purdue Coach Dewey said after the match that the Hawkeyes had played considerably better than earlier in the season, the two teams met in Lafayette, Ind.

"I THINK PART of the problem was that Iowa was very, very well," Dewey said. "We think our players weren't ready for [Iowa]."

"It looked like the Purdue players looked past us," Stewart said. "We came out firing, we were ready."

Iowa pulled together with impressive unity Friday night, pushing Purdue for nearly two hours in the first game, it was apparent that the margin between the teams was not as great as it had been in West Lafayette, Ind.

Linda Gensing, Micheleletti and Davidson were named to the team.

Purdue defeats Hawkeye spikers

By Robert Ryser

EVANSTON, Ill. — Iowa Coach Sandy Stewart said Saturday night she felt the Hawkeye volleyball squad didn't come to the Final Four competition here for nothing — despite a first-round, three-game loss to Purdue, Friday night, 15-10, 15-10, 15-5.

Stewart was named Big Ten Coach of the Year at the conclusion of the championship match Saturday night, and Iowa center Kathy Greisheim was honored by being named the league's freshman of the year.

AFTER THE SELECTIONS announcement, an excited group of Hawkeye players and fans flocked around their second year coach and exchanged congratulations for one of the most memorable volleyball seasons in Iowa history.

The Hawkeyes virtually wiped out the memory of their final regular season losses to Indiana and Ohio State with an impressive display of teamwork against powerhouse Purdue, Friday night.

Surprisingly, the Boilermakers, who hadn't lost a regular or postseason Big Ten match in two years, watched a two-game lead widdled away as the host Northwestern Wildcats came back before a record crowd of over 1,000 to win the five-game championship match.

There were a little under 900 fans on hand to watch the Hawkeyes and Purdue the night before. Purdue Coach Carol Dewey said after the match with Iowa that the Hawkeye squad had played considerably better than earlier in the season, when the two teams met in West Lafayette, Ind.

Hawks destroy hapless Gophers

By Mike Condon
 Assistant Sports Editor

If there was thought of Minnesota pulling the football upset of the season Saturday in Kinnick Stadium, Iowa tailback Eddie Phillips ended those thoughts in 12 short seconds.

On the first play from scrimmage, the senior from Chicago took a pitchout from reserve quarterback Tom Grogan, who was playing in place of the injured Chuck Long, and ran untouched, 80 yards for a touchdown, which propelled the 11th-ranked Hawkeyes to a 61-10 romp over the hapless Gophers.

Following the game, the Hawkeyes accepted a bid to the Gator Bowl to meet 12th-ranked Florida on Dec. 30 in Jacksonville, Fla.

AS WAS EXPECTED, a number of records fell by the wayside. The most notable individual effort was Phillips passing Dennis Mosley's career rushing total of 2,133 yards. Phillips, who finished with 172 yards on the day, now has 2,144 for his career.

Phillips showed up to meet the media following the game with the game ball tucked under his arm. "I really haven't been paying much attention to (the record)," he said. "The coaches told me at halftime that I was about 30 yards away so I decided to go for it."

Junior kicker Tom Nichol put four more school records in the book. He broke his own record for the most field goals in a season with 12. He set the old mark of 11 in 1981.

He also broke two 1968 records of Marcos Melendez. Nichol finished with 44 extra points in 47 attempts to break Melendez's old marks.

NICHOL ALSO TIED his own record set this season against Northwestern and by Alan Schuette in 1969 against Washington State for points scored by a kicker with 13.

The Hawkeyes, behind Phillips, Owen Gill and Norm Granger — all of whom ran for over 100 yards on the day — set a school, single-game rushing mark of 517 yards, breaking the old mark of 464 yards set by the 1969 team against Washington State.

Three season records held by the 1968 squad also fell Saturday. Iowa's 374 points, 49 touchdowns and 44 points after touchdowns broke standards set by the 1968 squad.

Balanced Gator attack to challenge Iowa

By J.B. Glass
 Staff Writer

The Florida Gators, Iowa's opponent in the 39th-annual Gator Bowl Classic on Dec. 30 in Jacksonville, Fla., are a team the Gator Bowl selection committee was looking for.

Ted Emery, a member of the Gator Bowl selection committee, said they look for teams that exhibit strong offenses and defenses. Also, the committee always likes to have an in-state team in their bowl, Emery said.

With a season-ending match-up with intrastate rival Florida State scheduled for Dec. 3, Florida makes its third consecutive bowl appearance under fifth-year Coach Charley Pell. The Gators are currently in fourth place in the Southeastern Conference with a 4-2 record and are 7-2-1 overall.

BESIDES HAVING AN avid fan following, the Gators can play football. Florida can move the ball offensively and stop it from being advanced defensively.

Going into last weekend's play, Florida was 15th in total defense and 19th in pass defense in the country.

Florida runs a multiple pro style offense led by senior quarterback Wayne Peace, who was an honorable mention All-American last year. This season, Peace became only the 20th quarterback in college football history to throw for over 7,000 yards.

So far this season Peace has completed 172 of 272. He has thrown for 10 touchdowns, and has moved into the second position in the SEC in passing yardage.

However, Florida runs a controlled balanced offense, averaging 199 yards a game through the air and 187 yards a game on the ground.

THE GATORS LIKE to throw their backs out of the backfield and complete a lot of short passes as well as grinding it out on the ground.

A scare came over Gainesville, Fla., earlier this year when Peace suffered an injury on July 1st, but recovered in time for his senior season.

Peace's best performance of the year came when he tossed for 336 yards in a 28-21 loss to Auburn on Oct. 29.

Among Peace's favorite targets is senior wide receiver Dwayne Dixon, who is the squad's leading receiver with 40 receptions for 502 yards.

The Gator backfield is led by two sophomores, fullback John Williams and tailback Neal Anderson. Also, Lorenzo Hampton and Joe Henderson aid the Gator ground game.

ANDERSON LEADS THE four in rushing with 748 yards in 145 carries with eight touchdowns. Anderson is in the top three in rushing in the SEC.

Williams has 502 yards on 80 carries for a 6.3 average.

Linebacker Wilber Marshall is the top defender for Florida. Marshall, a senior All-American, had a slow start after breaking his hand earlier this year, but has steadily improved since. He is a possible All-American candidate.

Linebacker Fred McCallister leads the team with 107 tackles.

The Florida secondary is interchangeable with many players seeing action. Among the standouts are Tony Lilly, Bruce Vaughan, Ricky Easton and Randy Clark.

Punter Ray Criswell leads the nation with an average of 47.3 yards per kick, but he has not had enough kicks to qualify him for the NCAA lead. Although Criswell has handled all the Gators' punting chores, he only has 27 punts on the year, which is under the average of 3.6 per game played.

Place-kicker Bobby Raymond is the team's leading scorer, hitting 14 of 17 field goals.

Fans draw Raveling's criticism in loss to experienced Italians

By Mike Condon

Iowa basketball Coach George Raveling did some criticizing following the Hawkeyes' 64-58 loss to the Italian National squad Friday night at the Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

But none of Raveling's players were the targets of his criticism. Nor were the officials or the opposing team. The first-year Iowa coach, surprisingly, came down on the Hawkeye fans during his post-game press conference.

"I was somewhat surprised at the crowd," Raveling said. "All I've been hearing since I've come here is about the crowd. I was really disappointed that the crowd didn't get more involved in the game and try to bring the kids on down the stretch from a cheering standpoint."

"I KNOW I'M going to catch a lot of heat for saying this ... when I took the job, (Oregon State and former Iowa Coach) Ralph Miller told me that I wasn't going to have to stand up and ask (the fans) to cheer."

As for the game, in which Indiana and Olympic Coach Bobby Knight was in attendance, the first half was a defensive struggle as neither team had much success offensively.

Iowa's last lead was 6-4 on a driving lay up by Andre Banks early in the half. From that point, the experience of the Italians took over.

Every time the Hawkeyes would appear to be on a run, the Italians took the wind right out of their sails with clutch baskets, many on back door plays behind the overplay of the Iowa defense.

THE KEY POINT of the game, in Raveling's mind, was a brief period early in the second half when the Italians reeled off six quick points, taking advantage of the international rule where the official doesn't have to handle the ball.

"After that point, I thought it was just a matter of trading baskets," Raveling said. "We made a lot of mistakes out there and probably had more to do with our demise than the Italians did."

The Italians slowly increased their lead, largely in part to the deadly outside shooting of Antonello Riva, who came off the bench to lead the Italians with 17 points.

Riva and 32-year-old point guard Carlo Cagliaris, who didn't even enter the game until the final 16 minutes of the contest, controlled the tempo as the Italians moved out to their biggest lead of the game, 54-41, on a drive by Riva.

BUT THE HAWKEYES, spurred on by Raveling jumping up and down on the sidelines to ignite the slightly less than capacity crowd, rallied and got as close as 59-54 on a drive at the one minute, nine second mark by junior center Greg Stokes, who finished as the game's high scorer with 23 points.

However, Riva came back down and hit another long jumper, and Iowa's Brad Lohaus threw in a 20-footer from the top of the key before the Italian Granger became the 20th back in Iowa history to run for over 1,000 yards in a career and the Hawkeyes set a new home attendance average mark of 66,124 for five games.

THE GAME ITSELF went as expected. After Phillips' initial burst, the Hawkeyes scored the next four times they touched the football.

Nichol connected on the first of his two field goals on the day, from 25 yards out. After stopping the Gophers on three plays, the Hawkeyes took the ball right down the field and Phillips finished it off with a nine-yard run around left end.

The Hawkeyes put 17 more points on the board in the second quarter. Nichol connected from 22 yards out, Gill broke loose for a 41-yard score and third-string quarterback Cornelius Robertson hit Ronnie Harmon with a 25-yard pass before Minnesota even threatened.

AS THE HALF was winding down, Gopher quarterback Brett Sadek drove his team to the Iowa one-yard line — the key play being a 23-yard pass to Lungen Howard. But on two tries from the one, Minnesota couldn't get the ball in the end zone as Sadek was sacked by defensive end Tony Wancket on the final play of the half.

Minnesota got its only touchdown of the game early in the third quarter as Sadek found tight end Kevin Starks, who took the ball in front of a diving Mike Stoops and turned it into a 66-yard touchdown play.

Phillips then scored his third touchdown of the day on a one-yard run before Granger, who Fry had in the game to get the two or three yards he needed to pass the 1,000-yard mark for his career, broke away on a misdirection play for a 65-yard touchdown.

GOPHER PLACE-KICKER Jim Gallery booted a 42-yard field goal, and Harmon, now in the game at tailback, scored his third touchdown of the day on an 11-yard run in the final 30 seconds of the game.

Almost lost in the post-game shuffle was Iowa's winning the coveted Floyd of Rosedale, the traveling trophy that goes to the winner of the Iowa-Minnesota game each season, for the second consecutive year.

Minnesota Coach Joe Salem, who resigned earlier this season, told reporters last Tuesday that once the final gun went off his job was over. He wasn't kidding, refusing to hold a post-game press conference or let the media talk to his players.

IOWA COACH HAYDEN Fry had this to say about the situation at Minnesota where Salem leaves after finishing a dismal 1-10 season along with giving up a record 518 points in conference play this season.

"Joe's a nice guy and I wish him the very best of luck ... Maybe the folks up at Minnesota will become a little more in-depth in searching to build a bigger stronger program.

"But I didn't come in here to talk about Minnesota.

"We have a great football team here at the University of Iowa," Fry said after accepting the Gator Bowl bid. "They did an

Florida

"We've already done a little research and the University of Florida has one of the best teams in the country," Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said, following the Hawkeyes victory over Minnesota. "They're a super team with great personnel."

Fry said that Florida is stronger than Iowa's previous two bowl opponents. "On paper, Florida is stronger than Washington and Tennessee from an experience standpoint," he said.

FLORIDA USUALLY has high expectations at the beginning of the campaign, although they have never won the tough SEC in 51 years. This year, the Gators began the campaign with a 28-3 victory over Miami (Fla.), the Hurricanes' only loss.

They tied their next game with USC, but then went on to win five games in a row. At that point, Florida was 6-0-1 and were among the top five in the country.

The Gators then ran into tough conference rivals in league champion Auburn and Georgia back to back. After they lost to Auburn, the Gators were nipped by Georgia, 10-9. Florida then went on to beat Kentucky and await Florida State on Dec. 3 to close the regular season.

salted the game away at the foul line. Raveling had nothing but praise for his opponents. "The Italians are an outstanding basketball team," he said. "They might be the best basketball team we play this season.

"For us to play and stay with them the way we did is a sign of encouragement for me ... I know we're never going to play in a more physical game than the one tonight. There's some places in the states that what went on tonight you could get 10-20 (years) for."

STOKES AGREED with his coach on the rugged play of the Italians. "They were more physical than any team I played against in the Pan Am games this summer," he said. "Down there, we went against Brazil and they were the most physical team we played against but the Italians were much stronger by far."

The Hawkeye defense against an Italian team that had been averaging 71 points a game on tour had Raveling making bold predictions. "I told the kids after the game ... that they have the potential to be an awesome defensive team."

Hawkeye senior guard Steve Carfino started at the off-guard position for the first time in two seasons and said he is happy in his new role.

"I like shooting better when you come off screens," Carfino said. "It's a lot more natural to just catch the ball and shoot it instead of working for the shot up on the point."

For the most part, Raveling was pleased with what he saw in his first game as Hawkeye coach.

"I had a lot of mixed feelings coming into this game, and I think if there were any doubts in my mind about what we could do, I feel they were eradicated ... I was encouraged by what I saw out there and I think we're heading in the right direction," he said.
