Iowa running back Ronnie Harmon makes his cut for the end zone on a 12-yard touchdown run during the fourth quarter of the Hawkeyes' 23-13 win over Wisconsin Saturday. Harmon rushed for 175 yards in 20 attempts.

Showdown set up with Hawkeye win

By Jeff Stratton
Assistant Sports Editor

MADISON, WIS. — The stage has been set and the curtain is about to rise.

Iowa's 23-13 win Saturday over Wisconsin, coupled with Michigan's 31-0 pasting of Michigan State, sets up the biggest game of the college football season to this point this Saturday at Kinnick Stadium.

The Hawkeyes and Michigan are both undefeated at 5-0 on the season and 2-0 in Big Ten play. Iowa is the No. 1 team in the nation, while the Wolverines are ranked third.

Wisconsin falls to 3-2 overall and 0-2 in conference play with the loss.

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry called the Wisconsin game "a typical Big Ten, backyard brawl," and said, "it was not our greatest game, but we did what we had to do."

HAWKEYE RUNNING BACK Ronnie Harmon certainly did what he had to do against Wisconsin, rushing for 175 yards and one touchdown on 20 attempts, and catching eight passes for 62 yards.

"This was Ronnie's first complete game since the injury," Fry said. "I don't know if we would have won without him."

Fry's assessment may have indeed been true. Iowa quarterback Chuck Long struggled through what for him has to be considered a below average day after taking some vicious hits in the first half.

Long completed 18 of 28 passes for 167 yards and one touchdown on the day. In the second half, however, Long completed four of seven passes for 44 yards.

remaining in the first half and Fry said, "Chuck didn't remember much of the first half after that... He was real woozy."

"I wasn't feeling that well until the middle of the second half," Long said.

At the time of Long's injury, Iowa was leading, 10-0. The Hawkeyes took the lead after marching 48 yards on 11 plays and scoring on Rob Houghtlin's 30-yard field goal with 3:55 to play in the first quarter.

Iowa nearly scored a touchdown on the drive, but wingback Scott Helverson ran out of end zone on a pass from Long and crashed hard into the goal post.

STRONG SAFETY Jay Norvell, who is from Madison, intercepted Wisconsin quarterback Mike Howard at the Wisconsin 28-yard line to set up Iowa's first touchdown of the game.

Harmon raced for 22 yards to the Wisconsin eight-yard line, and on second down, Long hit Bill Happel in the left endzone for a touchdown with 11:42 to play in the second quarter, making the score 9-0 Iowa. Houghtlin's extra point made the score 10-0, a lead Iowa took into the locker room at halftime.

Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain replaced Howard at quarterback with Bud Keyes in the second half. Keyes put the Badgers on the board following a seven-play, 65-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown pass to fullback Joe Armentrout with 5:52 to play in the third quarter, and with Todd Gregoire's extra point, Iowa led, 10-7.

At this point the Wisconsin fans awakened, but Iowa

Big play defense aids Iowa

MADISON, WIS. — "It wasn't too polished, but it was enough."

That statement from Coach Hayden Fry following No. 1 Iowa's 23-13 win over Wisconsin is indeed an accurate description of the Hawkeyes' play Saturday, particularly that of the defensive unit.

After being embarrassed last week by an unheralded Michigan State offense that racked up 31 points and 580 total yards, Iowa headed into Madison to face two of the Big Ten's top four rushers in Larry Emery and Joe Armentrout.

The Hawkeyes didn't shut down that tandem, nor could the defense contain backup quarterback Bud Keyes. But at the most crucial times, Iowa defenders came up with the big plays that proved to be the difference in the game.

"We kind of got ourselves in some spots today," strong safety Jay Norvell said of the defense. "We bent a little bit. We had to come up with the big plays when we needed them. We did that today."

Cardinal win gives Dodgers the blues

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals can count Sunday as the most fortunate of nights.

Not only did they narrowly escape tragedy involving star rookie Vince Coleman, but his replacement led a 12-2 rout of the Los Angeles Dodgers that evened the National League playoffs.

Tito Landrum, inserted as Coleman's replacement, struck with four singles and John Tudor pitched a three-hitter over seven innings to leave the best-of-seven series at two victories apiece.

"Tito's done that time and time again," St. Louis manager Whitey Herzog said. "When Vince got hurt, Tito rose to the occasion."

Herzog said Coleman — who suffered a slight leg injury in a freak accident involving the automatic tarpaulin — would not be rushed back to the lineup.

"I DOUBT WHETHER I'd use him tomorrow," Herzog said. "But he could play on Wednesday. He has a little gash on his ankle. He's a pretty tough kid."

Coleman departed from the park early but left a statement under the glove of third baseman Bill Madlock.

Landrum singled home Clark and took second when center fielder Candy Maldonado's throw went to third on an ill-advised attempt to nail Cedeno. Terry Pendleton scored Cedeno with a grounder with Landrum advancing to third.

"I was very very sorry," he said. "I felt awfully sorry for the youngster. I went to visit him and told him we all wish him well."

Delighting a Busch Stadium crowd of 53,708, the Cardinals scored nine runs in a record-breaking second inning in which they chased two pitchers, including loser Jerry Reuss.

THE DODGERS, who have blown a 2-0 series lead, assigned left-hander Fernando Valenzuela to start Game 5 Monday. He will face right-hander Bob Forsch.

In collecting 15 hits off four pitchers, the Cardinals assured themselves a return to Dodger Stadium, where they lost the first two games of this series and went 2-4 during the season.

St. Louis, capitalizing on Los Angeles' defensive breakdown, sent 14 men to the plate in the second inning.

After Jack Clark led off with a single, Cesar Cedeno slammed a possible double-play grounder under the glove of third baseman Bill Madlock.

Landrum singled home Clark and took second when center fielder Candy Maldonado's throw went to third on an ill-advised attempt to nail Cedeno. Terry Pendleton scored Cedeno with a grounder with Landrum advancing to third.

Norman takes Striders 10K in a 'cruise'

By Steve Sands

Don Norman cruised to victory in the 10 kilometer Iowa City Striders Hospice Road Race Sunday in 29:31 as the anticipated showdown between him and legendary Bill Rodgers dissolved the night before.

Rodgers, winner of four New York and Boston marathons, decided to run the half-marathon instead, capturing it easily in 1:05:22.8.

Both runners have one victory a piece in the head-to-head duel and will meet again in the New York Marathon in two weeks.

In the ninth running of the hospice event, 1,527 runners began the 5 K, 10 K, half and full marathons.

Rodgers, who lives in the Boston area, said he told Norman of the race switch Saturday night.

"I started thinking I needed a longer run before the marathon," he said, "so I decided on the half."

"I think I would have been around with Don (in the 10 K).

Rodgers runs his message to the masses

By Steve Sands
Staff Writer

Bill Rodgers sat in a large meeting room of the Holiday Inn Saturday night.

After speaking at a lasagna dinner for participants in the Iowa City Hospice Road Races, he signed one last autograph from a busboy who cleared away his tablecloth.

Then the 1976 Olympic marathon qualifier turned his attention to a reporter in the empty room.

He would win the half-marathon the next day in a course record.

"I REALLY LIKE the sport (of running) a lot," he said. "Runners, their enthusiasm is very real. They're like football fans and players. They're alike in that way, the same kind of real interest."

Enthusiasm is a good word to describe Rodgers himself.

Ever since the 37-year-old quit smoking over a decade ago and returned to the sport he once knew in college and high school, it has been felt internationally.

Home turf helps Hawks notch three victories

By Jill Hokinson

The Iowa field hockey team walked over its first three opponents on its own turf over the weekend.

The Hawkeyes won two Big Ten games against Ohio State, 4-0, and Michigan State, 2-1. Iowa also defeated St. Louis 6-1. The three wins increase Iowa's record to 4-1 in the conference and 12-2-1 overall.

Iowa's only scare came from Michigan State Sunday. The Hawkeyes rolled up a 2-0 lead in the first half by taking 33 shots on goal and earning 19 penalty corners.

Marcia Pankratz chipped in Iowa's first goal from the left side of the field with approximately 10 minutes gone in the game. About 20 minutes later Liz Tchou scored on a penalty corner. Assisting the goal were Michelle Murgatroyd and Mary Koboldt.

THE HAWKEYES didn't allow the Spartans to penetrate beyond Iowa's 30-yard line in the first half.

But an improved Michigan State team took the field in the second half. Spartan Coach Rich Kimball said. The Spartans were able to move within scoring range twice during the half, scoring on their first attempt.

Wendy Clark took a pass from Stephanie Allans and knocked the ball past Iowa goalie Karen Napolitano, closing the gap to 2-1.

"We knew going into the game that we'd be playing on defense 90 percent of the time," Kimball said. "We knew we were going to get few opportunities and were going to have to make good on them."

Michigan State's goalie, Barb

Naylor, kept the Hawkeyes from racking more goals in the game. Naylor had 21 saves in the game, 15 in the first half. "They're goalie played a great game against us," Iowa Coach Judith Davidson said.

Payton, Bears still unbeaten

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Walter Payton ran for 132 yards and scored two touchdowns and Kevin Butler added four field goals to lead the Chicago Bears to a 26-10 triumph Sunday over the error-plagued San Francisco 49ers in a rematch of last year's NFC Championship game. The victory was sweet revenge for the Bears, a 23-0 loser in the NFC Championship game, and ran their season mark to 6-0. San Francisco fell to 3-3 on the year, three games behind the first-place Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West. The 49ers lost two fumbles and had 13 penalties for 94 yards. Quarterback Joe Montana was also sacked seven times for 44 yards in losses. The Bears sealed the victory with a 66-yard, 13-play drive that used up 7:33. Payton capped the drive with a 17-yard scamper around end to make it 26-10. Butler kicked field goals of 34, 38 and 27 yards in the first half and Payton added a 3-yard touchdown run to give the Bears their 16 first-half points.

Defense

TWO INTERCEPTIONS by Norvell set up both of Iowa's touchdowns, and a third pickoff, by Devon Mitchell on the Iowa goal line, squelched any hope the Badgers had of making a late comeback.

Mitchell's play highlighted the sixth defensive stand in the game that ended Badger drives in Iowa territory. Three of those series had reached inside the Iowa 10-yard line before being stopped, with one ending on Mitchell's interception and two in field goals.

"It wasn't a great game on our part, but we did what we had to do to win," Fry said. "We were able to keep Wisconsin out of the end zone on a couple of close situations and that was the key for us."

Only once did the Badgers cross the goal line, on a three-yard third quarter pass from Keyes to Armentrout that set the score at 10-7 Iowa.

BUT ON THE NEXT Wisconsin possession, with Iowa leading 13-7, the defense rose to stop a severe Badger threat.

With the ball at the Wisconsin 48, Emery broke loose and rambled 44 yards before being hauled down by Mitchell on the Iowa eight. But three big plays, including a tackle for a five-yard loss on an Armentrout pitchout, left the Badgers stranded on the 11 and forced to take a field goal.

When Wisconsin got the ball back they drove to the Iowa 49 before the possession ended with Norvell's second interception, which set up a 12-yard Ronnie Harmon touchdown run and a 20-10 lead.

Just minutes later, Robert Smith fumbled a punt and Wisconsin recovered on the Iowa 16, but the defense again forced the Badgers to settle for a field goal after reaching the one-yard line.

"We might have been on the ropes on a couple of those drives," Norvell said, "but we hung in there and made them kick a field goal."

WISCONSIN RACKED up 306 yards on the day, just 35 less than Iowa, but the defensive stands and key interceptions were the difference.

"Interceptions are a real let-down (for an offense)," Mitchell said. "When you get the ball intercepted, that kind of knocks the whole team down, and that makes the team have to start all over again."

Fry had said before the season began that a young defense like Iowa's needs big plays to make up for problems with consistency, and that was the case Saturday.

"Somebody has to come up and make the big play," Norvell said. "Every week it's somebody different. Today it was my chance to make the plays and I'm just glad it came through that way."

With high powered offensive teams such as Ohio State, Illinois and Purdue still ahead on the schedule, the Hawkeyes may need more than just the big plays, and Mitchell said he expects the unit to improve.

"Every week you're going to see the defense getting better and better," Mitchell said. "Eventually we're going to come together and become tighter and tighter."

Hawkeyes

responded with a five-play, 33-yard drive that ended with Houghtlin kicking a 40-yard field goal at the 3:53 mark to extend Iowa's lead to 13-7.

THE BADGERS, however, responded by moving the ball to the Iowa eight-yard line, where they had a first down and goal situation. The Hawkeye defense held, and Gregoire kicked a 27-yard field goal with :07 remaining in the quarter, making the score 13-10 in favor of Iowa. Iowa took the ensuing kickoff and it looked as if the Hawkeyes would put Wisconsin away, but Harmon fumbled the ball after a 28-yard run and the Badgers recovered at their own 30.

Norvell then intercepted his second pass of the day and returned it 23 yards to the Badger 35-yard line.

It took Iowa four plays to put the ball in the endzone with Harmon running it in from 12 yards out with 10:52 to play in the game. Following Houghtlin's extra point Iowa led, 20-10.

The Hawkeyes then held Wisconsin, but Robert Smith fumbled the punt and the Badgers had new life at the Iowa 16.

WISCONSIN MOVED the ball to the Iowa four-yard line, where the Badgers had the ball first and goal. Two plays later, Wisconsin tried a reverse from the one-yard line, but wide receiver Tim Fullington was dropped for a six-yard loss and Wisconsin settled for a field goal, making the score 20-13 Iowa.

"That was the key," Fry said.

McClain's reasoning on the call was that the Iowa defense was pursuing the ball hard and might have been vulnerable to the play. "It is easy to second guess now, but at the time I felt they were really flying on defense," he said. "It didn't go and they did a nice job. We felt Fullington would beat some people — he did on the first reverse."

Iowa then put the game in the bank by moving down the field and scoring on a 35-yard field goal by Houghtlin with 3:14 to play to make the final score, 23-13.

"I knew we needed it (the final field goal)," Houghtlin said. "I knew the situation. If I missed they could have scored and won on a two-point conversion."

SO THE SHOWDOWN between Iowa and Michigan is set. The Hawkeyes, however, came home from Wisconsin with some injuries.

Defensive left tackle Jeff Drost is hurting, but Fry said he is "very hopeful he will be able to play next week."

The news is not so good for offensive right tackle Kelly O'Brien. "O'Brien could miss the rest of the season," Fry said.

Fry also said backup tight end Dave Murphy could be facing surgery following an injury sustained at Wisconsin.

Fry wouldn't play up the importance of the Michigan game Sunday during his teleconference. "The game is no more important than the Wisconsin or Michigan State game from a win-loss standpoint," he said. "We'll play our best to win this game like Wisconsin and Michigan State."

The Iowa coach knows one thing for sure — he doesn't relish preparing his team for a Bo Schembechler coached squad. "I can think of a whole lot of coaches in the U.S. I'd rather be preparing for," Fry said. "I don't know that I can find anything I like about coaching against him. He's proven he's a great coach."

Heart Answers

Hypercholesterolemia
Hypercholesterolemia is a condition in which too much cholesterol, a fatty wax-like substance, is circulating in the blood. Cholesterol is manufactured by the body, and comes from animal substances, such as meat, egg yolks and whole milk dairy products. When the amount of cholesterol becomes excessive, it is deposited on or in the lining of the arteries with other fatty substances. Over a period of years, the lining of the arteries becomes thicker and harder, and the channel through which the blood flows is narrowed.
