"Let the word go out today that the San Francisco Giants simply will not tolerate those few people who think they can come to our park, get drunk and act any way they please," Rosen said.

Driver on Course

Dennis Firestone was in good condition following surgery to his left foot and could be ready to drive before the second weekend of Indianapolis 500 qualifications, his team manager, Bob Hancher, said yesterday.

Three other drivers, including two yesterday, have been involved in scrapes with the Speedway's walls since practice began, but Firestone was the only one injured.

Firestone, 42, crashed just before practice closed Tuesday. The Lola race car was wrecked beyond repair, and Firestone suffered two broken bones in his left foot and a minor leg injury.

Iowa Confirms Pay

Two former Iowa football players received payments from the sports agent, Norby Walters, while playing for the Hawkeyes in 1985, a university committee reported yesterday. National Collegiate Athletic Association rules prohibit an athlete from being represented by an agent until his or her eligibility is up. The rule specifically includes agreements that do not take effect until after the athlete's last game. The report from a three-member committee appointed by the university president, James O. Freedman, identified the players only as "Student A" and "Student B." But at a news conference to release the report, committee member David Vernon identified "Student A" was Ronnie Harmon, the former running back. Freedman organized the committee after published reports said Harmon, a first-round draft choice now with the National Football League's Buffalo Bills, received up to $54,000 from Walters in 1984 and 1985. The committee report said it uncovered money orders from Walters to the two players, with Harmon getting a total of $1,000 in four payments and the other player $575.
