Kansas City outfielder Bo Jackson stands with the help of crutches in the Royals clubhouse prior to Thursday night's game. Jackson was placed on the 21-day disabled list Thursday. Jackson has a torn hamstring muscle.

SPORTS BRIEFLY

BASEBALL — Bo Jackson, hitting over .300 in his second full season, has gone onto the 21-day disabled list with a torn hamstring, the Kansas City Royals announced Thursday . . . The Florida state Senate Appropriations Committee handed St. Petersburg an unexpected reversal in efforts to lure the Chicago White Sox to their new Florida Suncoast Dome when it gutted a $30 million appropriations bill to finish off the new stadium by opening day next year

. . . Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla, who hit .344 during May with six home runs and 25 RBI, has been voted National League Player of the Month for the second month in a row. The Mets' David Cone (5-0, 0.72 ERA in May) earned NL pitcher honors . . . Oakland third baseman Carney Lansford, who hit .444 in May, was named the American League Player of the Month. Minnesota's Frank Viola (6-0, 1.53 ERA in May) earned AL pitcher honors. Lansford, the AL batting leader, has agreed to a three-year contract extension.

Houston starting pitcher Joaquin Andujar, who started the season on the injury list, will be sent to the minor leagues to get more pitching time, Manager Hal Lanier announced. Sara Uribe, the 27-year-old wife of San Francisco Giants infielder Jose Uribe, is dead of a heart attack she suffered 38 hours after the premature birth of the couple's third child, hospital officials in Redwood City, Calif., say. Uribe left the Giants for an indefinite period, returning to the Dominican Republic to make funeral arrangements . . . Rick Bay, executive vice president and chief operating officer of the New York Yankees, is leaving the team to join a new television production company, Starbright Group Inc. in Westport, Conn. Bay was athletic director at Ohio State before joining the Yankees in February.

MISC. — Indiana Pacers assistant coach Dick Harter was named the first head coach of the NBA expansion Charlotte Hornets, who will begin their first season this fall. Harter, 57, has been an NBA assistant coach for the past five seasons and coached on the college level for 18 years. Former San Francisco 49ers lineman Charlie Kruger would receive $2.36 million in damages from the 49ers for permanent knee injuries under a preliminary court order. The 49ers "fraudulently concealed" from Kruger, now 51, the extent of his serious injuries and instead gave him pain killers and steroids so he could continue to play, said Superior Court Judge John Dearman . . . Clarke College announced that its new basketball coach, Ed Colbert, also will be the new athletic director, effective in August . Sports agent Norby Walters will avoid criminal charges by paying the University of Alabama more than $200,000 and agreeing not to deal with Southeastern Conference athletes, according to a settlement announced by Attorney General Don Siegelman.
