Pros Approved to Play Olympic Basketball

The United States, which lost the Olympic gold medal in basketball with college players, will be able to use professionals to get it back in 1992. FIBA, the international basketball federation, voted overwhelmingly at a special session in Munich, West Germany, yesterday to allow professionals in the Olympics and other world competition.

"We see this as our triumphant entry into the 21st century," said Boris Stankovic, general secretary of FIBA. Almost certainly, it will be a triumphant entry for the Americans, who veed against the pro-eligibility plan but clearly welcomed the 56-13 vote.

"For more than 40 years, our country has been discriminated against because we could not use our best players," said Dave Gavitt, commissioner of the Big East Conference and president of 9-2 6-1 the USA Amateur Basketball Association. "For the first time, our country will be able to play on a level field with our best players - no age limits, no constraints. 10-1 15-1 10-1 "Our federation voted no simply because our constituency colleges and schools — did not want it." He said pros could be playing for U.S. national squads as early as this summer. The NBA issued a statement that said the league and the players' union are working to develop a framework for players to participate. The Goodwill Games, to be played in Seattle next year, said it hoped to have pros playing in its basketball tournament. 9-2

BETS 'N PIECES: Contribute N (8th) New Zealand import breezed in 1:57 1/5 in his latest and definitely appears headed for bigger things. Rambo Steve (1st) wasn't far off with a big late move in his last; can prevail with more aggressive handling. Hampton Lobell (4th) encountered some traffic problems in his last; don't sell short. Wholesale (5th) has impressed beating weaker in his last two; must get a solid shot to handle slightly stronger from the rail. Adonodis (7th) has to be better than he's looked in recent starts; take a chance.

Moon Signs 5-Year, $10-M Oilers Pact

Quarterback Warren Moon has signed a five-year, $10 million contract with the Oilers that he said will make him the highestpaid player in the NFL. Agent Leigh Steinberg said Moon will receive a $1 million signing bonus and a $500,000 salary in 1989. Moon will receive a $1.5 million salary in 1990, 1991 and 1992 and $4 million in 1993. The entire contract is guaranteed and there is no deferred money involved, Steinberg said.

Denver quarterback John Elway, who earns $2.1 million a year, has been the highest-paid NFL player, but some of the money is deferred.

San Diego Ordered to Relinguish Cup

Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Carmen Ciparick signed the order disqualifying Stars & Stripes from America's Cup 1988, and ordered the San Diego Yacht Club to hand over the Cup to New Zealand's Mercury Bay Boating Club within 30 days after the order is served on San Diego on Monday. The office of New York State Attorney General Robert Abrams has agreed to join the San Diego club's appeal of Ciparick's March 28 decision that ruled that San Diego's catamaran defense violated the spirit of basic Cup rules in the 102-year-old Deed of Gift.

No Verdict in Sports Agents' Case

After deliberating all day without reaching a verdict, a 12member U.S. District Court jury in Chicago recessed for the weekend in the case of sports agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom, accused of signing college athletes to contracts before their eligibility had expired. Deliberations will resume Monday. Walters, 58, and Bloom, 29, are charged with multiple counts of racketeering, mail fraud and conspiracy to commit fraud. If convicted, they could face prison terms of more than 20 years and

Two other riders, Jose Santos and Herb McCauley, escaped serious injury in a spill at the quarter pole during the seventh race. McCauley was thrown from his mount, Valentino's Dancer, while moving four-wide into the stretch, when the 3-year-old broke his left foreleg. Santos lost his seat on Nessuno when he swerved sharply to avoid the fallen horse. Santos, complaining of a headache, said he would go to a a hospital for X-rays. McCauley suffered minor bruises, but is expected to ride today. Valentino's Dancer was destroyed. -Paul Moran
