Register Staff Writers The Iowa House narrowly defeated a bill Tuesday that would allow casino gambling on riverboats beginning in 1991.

The measure fell only a few votes short of passage, but riverboat gambling supporters vowed that they will try again soon to win House approval. Rejecting promises of increased tourism and new jobs, 18 Democrats voted with 35 Republicans in opposing a measure that critics charged would have been a hollow victory for economic development.

"We cannot gamble this state into prosperity, and if we base the economy of this state on gambling, it's like building a house on a foundation of sand. It's not going to last very long," said Representative Donald Hermann, a Bettendorf Republican. The riverboat gambling bill already had passed the Senate by a razor-thin margin, and Gov. Terry Branstad is expected to sign the bill into law if it reaches his desk.

"Awful Thing for Iowa"

"I think it's an awful thing, an awful thing for the Quad Cities and an awful thing for Iowa," said Bernard Goldstein, chairman of Alter Co. of Davenport, which has proposed building two 1,000-passenger gambling boats and a spinoff theme park with a Mark Twain flavor.

"I mean we could have 5,000 jobs," said Goldstein. "If those [legislators] knew how many cards and letters I'm getting from unemployed people, they wouldn't think like this." Paul Stanfield, coordinator of the Iowa Inter-Church Agency for Peace and Justice in Des Moines, which opposed riverboat gambling, said he was gratified by the vote, "but I don't think this is the last we're going to hear from this."

"Hope springs eternal," said Franklin Fried, head of Fried/Schegan and Associates of San Diego, which has proposed building six gambling boats to cruise the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. "I'm looking forward to the Legislature hopefully changing its mind."

The final vote in the House Tuesday was 53-47. Representative John Connors, a Des Moines Democrat who supports the riverboat gambling measure, switched his vote to "no" so he can ask that the bill be reconsid-

Rawlings said the criticism leveled at the U of I involving weak academic course loads for athletes is more appropriately the responsibility of the liberal arts faculty.

"The courses that have received so much attention in the press are, after all, your courses," Rawlings told the faculty.

Rawlings met with the faculty on a day when football Coach Hayden Fry expressed displeasure with the president's position on strengthened academic oversight of athletics.

After spending 20 minutes with faculty members, Rawlings spent the next 21/2 hours with influential members of the "I-Club," a group of U of I athletic boosters who have criticized the president.

They were particularly harsh after Rawlings disclosed that he might make the U of I the only major university in the country to withhold freshmen from athletic competition.

Board members were tight-lipped after the meeting. However, I-Club national president Darwin Bunger and Rawlings released a terse joint statement.

"In a very constructive meeting, it was important for the conversation to take place and the board and president were quite pleased that it did take place," Bunger said. "We feel we made progress in mutual understand-

The controversy has tarnished the image of a great university, Fry said, and has had a devastating effect on the U of I athletic department.

"I'm Hurt"

During a 2-hour meeting with reporters Tuesday, Fry was filled with emotion and his voice rose angrily at times. "I'm hurt," he said. "... We're not liars, and we're not cheaters."

Fry indicated that the controversy is hurting recruitment efforts at the university.

"The national letter-of-intent signing date is Wednesday, and we've already lost some of our top prospects," he said.

"I know last Saturday we had one of the top athletes in America — not a football player - cancel his visit to the campus because of the adverse publicity. And we were No. 1 in the running to get him."

The athlete was not identified publicly. But there were reports the player was Deon Thomas, a standout high school basketball player from Chica--

Fry added: "If you want to qualify watercolor painting and billiards as rinky-dink, that's fine. But there are thousands of people who have come through this university and hundreds

Girls' basketball coach leaves note, disappears

Hoegh, 39, who led his undefeated team to the state tournament last month, was the object of a five-hour search Monday night. Shortly after the search, Hoegh tele-

Some were speculating that the disappointing loss to Ankeny in the semifinals of the tournament in Des Moines had depressed Hoegh, described by many as intense and a perfectionist. "After the girls came back, we had a big welcoming home party and he said of all the girls he had ever coached, this was the hardest bunch to let go. The loss really seemed to upset him," said Phyllis Hess, mother of Stephanie Farley, a team member. Hess said Hoegh had publicly stated that he blamed

A proposed equal rights amendment to the Iowa Constitution won overwhelming approval in the Iowa Senate Tuesday.

In contrast with the quarrels over a similar proposal debated a decade ago, this amendment was approved without debate on a 43-4 vote.

"This amendment marks one more page in a long chapter regarding the equality of women in this country," said Senator Jean Lloyd-Jones, an Iowa City Democrat and supporter of the amendment.

The Senate approval follows an 89-7 House vote of approval earlier in the session. Under procedures for amending the constitution, the amendment must be approved a second time by both houses in the 1991 or 1992 session. If it wins a second round of approval, it would be submitted to Iowa voters in the 1992 general election.

The proposed amendment would add to the state constitution this provision: "Neither the state nor any of its political subdivisions shall, on the basis of gender, deny or restrict the equality of rights under the law." voters rejected a similar amendment in the 1980 election by 10 percentage points after a stormy public debate.

Lawmakers voting against the amendment were Democrat William Dieleman of Pella and Republicans John Jensen of Plainfield, Ray Taylor of Steamboat Rock and Dale Tieden of Elkader.

Fry said he generally does not disagree with Rawlings' proposals concerning intercollegiate athletics. "But a couple need to be modified, like the freshman eligibility rule that won't permit them to practice," Fry

"It's like asking a musician here on scholarship not to play the piano for a year. It doesn't make sense."

If a freshman athlete can make a valuable contribution to his team and maintain his schoolwork, "Then let him do it," Fry said. "Why deny him the opportunity? "

Fry added, "We've built our program to the level where we don't have to rely on that many freshmen."

Considering Quitting

Fry, who has been at the U of I for 10 years, said he would not guarantee that he will be the Hawkeyes' coach next season.

Hayden Fry "We've suffered"

"I haven't made up my mind," he said. "I made a commitment to Bump Elliott last week that I would wait until this week to make a decision and see how things went. I want a return to normalcy."

Elliott, the university's athletic director, appeared with Fry during the meeting with reporters. At one point, Fry put a hand on Elliott's shoulder and said, "I feel sorry for this man.

He's been slapped in the face." There have been indications the Rawlings without consultation with pickin' thing."

"They said they were sorry they

Four or five other Hawkeye head coaches, whom Fry did not identify, also are uncertain about their futures here, Fry said.

Elliott said he has "every confidence our coaching staff will be here next year, the year after, and the year after that."

Fry appeared to be seeking a public show of support from Rawlings and other school officials. "I'm looking for a strong move by the president or the Board in Control of Athletics," he said.

At another point in his press conference, the 60-year-old Fry said he hopes to coach until he is 70 and still hopes to win a national championship. Fry said he would like to stay in Iowa City "the rest of my life."

Fry said he cannot afford to leave the U of I job. "I'm not in a financial position to do so," he said.

"We're Proud"

Fry was critical of the public ridicule of the classwork of some U of I athletes.

"We all know Harmon and Mitchell weren't the best students," he said. "We've had other athletes who weren't the best students. We've had football players who weren't the best football players.

"But we try to make an honest effort. I've got to stand up for my young men and coaches. We're proud of what we've done.

"The players' graduation rate is a whole lot higher than the student body." Fry said it was wrong that Harmon and Mitchell signed with agents while they were in school.

Fry indicated that he has not met face-to-face with Rawlings about the issue. However, Rawlings, Elliott and some of the coaches met early this week. Elliott declined comment on what took place at the meeting.

Drake: Raider of fast tracks

Drake's track coaches found considerable women's track wealth when they raided across the Minnesota border four and five years ago.

And, much more success could come from the four seniors, who have been big winners this season. Their next competition will be Friday and Saturday at Drake Stadium in the Lady Bulldog Invitational.

The women are Sheila Haugh, a middle distance runner from Eagan, Minn.; Alicia Mundahl, a distance runner from Eagan; Adrienne Pannier, a hurdler from Burnsville, Minn., and Karla Zylstra, a distance runner from Hendricks, Minn.

southwest Minnesota.

In the indoor season, Haugh won the Gateway Conference 800-meter run in a school record 2 minutes 11.17 seconds, but lowered that to 2:11.03 the following week in winning at Nebraska. She also won the Husker Invitational 800 and placed second in the Nebraska Open 800.

Haugh won the 800 last month at the Alabama Relays in 2:09.90.

She also finished third last year in the Gateway Conference outdoor 800 and helped lead the distance medley relay team to victory in last year's Lady Bulldog event.

Haugh had a major influence in getting Mundahl interested in track.

"I was going to go out for soccer in the ninth grade, but Sheila told me about track," Mundahl said. "I thought my dad would like it if I got a free pair of shoes. He had been a cross-country runner once."

Mundahl said she and Haugh have been friends since fourth grade, but didn't plan to follow each other to college. "It just worked out that way," Mundahl said.

She was hampered by stress fractures in her freshman and junior seasons at Drake and will have indoor eligibility remaining next year. She has been injury-free this season. At the Gateway indoor meet, she won the 5,000- and 3,000-meter runs. She also won 3,000 titles at the Nebraska Open and Iowa Open while nabbing 5,000 victories at the Minnesota and Husker invitationals.

Going outdoors, she placed second at the Alabama Relays 3,000, but turned in her best time of 9:36.32. In the Texas Relays last weekend, she placed ninth in the 5,000. "It was a tough field," she said. "There were a lot of open runners." Pannier is fortunate to be running. "I tripped over a hurdle and tore some ligaments in a knee in practice as a freshman," she said. "I was told I probably would never compete She hopes to cap her career by defending her Gateway outdoor 100meter hurdles title.

In the indoor season, she was second in the 55-meter hurdles at the conference indoor meet but won the event at the Northern Iowa Open. She also placed second in the Iowa Open and Nebraska Open. Zylstra competes in the 1,500 and 3,000 and is the defending outdoor Gateway defending champion in both. In the indoor conference meet she was named Most Valuable Performer after winning the 1,000 - setting a school record of 2:45.31 -- and the mile, and running a leg on the victori-

Bergman to follow father at lowa State

By RICK BROWN Register Staff Writer

At 1:30 p.m. today, Waverly's Mike Bergman will follow in his father's footsteps.

Bergman, named Iowa's Mr. Basketball for 1989, will sign a national letter of intent with Iowa State. His father and coach at Waverly-Shell Rock, Bud, played for Iowa State from 1957-59. Mike said that his deep-rooted Cyclone loyalty turned the tide when it came time to decide between Iowa State and Northern Iowa.

"I always wanted to have an opportunity to play for the Cyclones," said Bergman.

Bergman, who averaged 21 points and 10 rebounds for the Go-Hawks, was a Des Moines Register first-team all-stater. Another member of that Elite team, Shane Murphy of Harlan, will sign a letter of intent with Drake at 6 p.m. tonight. The 6-7 Murphy averaged 22.6 points and 11.7 rebounds this season.

Murphy, who picked the Bulldogs over Creighton and Alaska-Anchorage, said former Harlan all-stater and Colorado standout Scott Wilke helped him with the recruiting process last summer and over the Christmas break.

"He's the one who told me what recruiting was all about and what to expect," said Murphy.

Bergman is one of two players who will sign with Iowa State today. Murphy is one of four players headed for Drake. Northern Iowa will La Tonia (Toni) Foster of Chicago, a 6-foot 2-inch center/forward, averaged 24 points and 12 rebounds while leading Marshall High School to the Illinois state championship. She was selected Player of the Year in the Chicago area and in Illinois.

Foster is one of three players Iowa Coach C. Vivian Stringer hopes to sign today. However, Annette Babers, a 6-3 center from Saginaw, apparently will not be one of them. Babers' coach, Jim Milam, said Iowa was not among her final two choices.

Iowa State Coach Pam Wettig said she hopes to sign at least two players today. Last fall she signed all-state forward Kim Van Deest from Grundy Center and 5-11 forward LaShanda Fitzgerald from Milwaukee.

Drake signed Janet Meeker, a 5-10 forward from Greenfield, Ind., last fall.

Northern Iowa Coach Terri Lasswell, who was hired last week, said she won't sign anyone today but she will have recruits visiting campus next week.

Three Iowa first-team all-state players signed letters of intent last fall: Waterloo West's Molly Goodenbour with Stanford; Tri-Center of Neola's Karen Jennings with Nebraska; and Elk Horn-Kimballton's Shannon Kite with Kansas.

IOWA CITY, IA. — Even though quarterback Tom Poholsky fractured his left shoulder on the second day of practice, Iowa football coach Hayden Fry said Tuesday the team has made considerable progress this spring.

Nonetheless, Fry said the 1989 season will be the most challenging his staff has faced at Iowa.

The Hawkeyes are coming off a disappointing 6-4-3 season. Gone are outstanding players such as quarterback Chuck Hartlieb, tight end Marv Cook, nose guard Dave Haight, wide receiver Deven Harberts, offensive tackle Bob Kratch and defensive end Joe Mott.

Fry doesn't think his team should be picked among the top four in the Big Ten, but didn't deny that the Hawkeyes could play well once the conference season starts. Iowa has finished in the first division every season under Fry.

Practice concludes this week, but there will be no intrasquad game open to the public because Kinnick Stadium is unavailable. Grass has been planted to replace the artificial turf that was removed last Novem-

Belleto Tailback

Although Fry said Tony Stewart will be back next fall after injuring a knee late last season, he has moved Nick Bell from fullback to tailback this spring.

Bell has already jumped ahead of Mike Saunders on the depth chart, and, at 255 pounds, likely will be one of the biggest tailbacks in college football next season.

"Bell has had a tremendous spring," Fry said. "We have an outstanding fullback in Richard Bass, and we felt that Bell was too good a player to be standing on the sidelines

Fry said doctors are optimistic Poholsky can start throwing this summer and that he'll be able to play in the fall.

"In the meantime, we've had a chance to work with two very good prospects — Matt Rodgers and Jim Hartlieb, Chuck's younger brother," the coach said. "Both have made great progress this spring. I'm sure Poholsky knows he'll have to do very well when practice starts next fall to be our No. 1 quarterback."

Poholsky got most of his experience in 1986, when Iowa won five of the six games he started.

'Plantation' charge untrue, black football player says

By RON MALY

Register Staff Writer IOWA CITY, IA. — A charge that the University of Iowa exploits black athletes is "the most far-fetched thing I've ever heard," Anthony Wright said Tuesday.

Wright, a black football player from Dallas, was responding to a contention made by Harry Edwards, a California sociologist. Edwards called the university a "plantation" for black athletes after testimony during a trial of two sports agents drew attention to the academic performance of former Iowa football players Ronnie Harmon and Devon Mitchell. Both are black.

Harmon and Mitchell, who signed representation contracts with agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom before their athletic eligibility expired, revealed poor academic records in testimony.

"How Fast Are You"?

"When I was recruited by assistant] coach Don Patterson, his first questions weren't, 'What's your vertical jump?' or 'How fast are you?' " Wright said. "Instead, his first questions were, 'What's your grade-point average? What do you want to do in life? What's your major?'

"I don't know why people would ever believe that blacks are exploited here. The way I see it, I was granted four to five years of free education. Why shouldn't I use those four or five years to help Iowa win games? I work hard for everything I get, and that's the same for all athletes here black or white."

Wright said charges of exploitation discredit those who have already received degrees from the university. "Trading Athletic Ability"

Another football player, Nick Bell, said Edwards "doesn't know what he's talking about."

Bell, a black running back from Las Vegas, said he and others are 'trading our athletic ability for a chance to get an education that most blacks didn't have a chance at for hundreds of years. It's not up to the university or the coaches to get us to go to class. We must want to do it."

Bell entered the university with poor results on entrance exams. He was not eligible to play during his freshman season because of NCAA Proposition 48 academic requirements, but credited the university for giving him a chance.

"The people of Iowa have treated me very well," he said. "The black players and black students at the university are treated better than at other institutions in other states."

6 Minnesota St. Louis RAPE TRIAL TESTIMONY. The victim of an alleged gang rape in a University of Oklahoma athletic dormitory told a court Tuesday she came to believe suspended Oklahoma football player Nigel Clay was one of her assailants after going over details with prosecutors. Meanwhile, the girlfriend of an Oklahoma football player testified she heard screams coming from Clay's room the night the victim says she was raped. Clay and teammates Bernard Hall and Glen Bell are charged with first-degree rape. Sherrelyn Osborn said she and her boyfriend, Larry Medice, were in Medice's room, which is directly below Clay's, when she heard screams.

■ SUSPENDED. Tonie Campbell, 1987 world indoor champion in the high hurdles, has been suspended for 90 days for refusing to take a drug test at an indoor meet in February. The Athletics Congress announced Tuesday.

NO VERDICT. Jurors in the case against sports agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom failed to reach a verdict Tuesday. They took the weekend off before resuming deliberations Monday, then recessed late in the afternoon and took the case up again Tuesday morning. Eight hours later, they broke off deliberations and planned to begin again today.

Quotes of the day

"If I fall, I'll definitely break some bones. But with the padding I'll have on, there's only a very small chance I'll get killed." - Robbie Knievel, who will attempt to jump a motorcycle over fountains Friday night at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev. Two riders, including his father, Evel Knievel, were seriously injured in the only other attempts to make the 180-foot jump.

Anyone who is a father knows what I'm going through." -Evel Knievel.

asked Wright, Bell and four other players to appear at his news conference to defend the university's program. Fry said he's thinking about resigning in the wake of negative publicity surrounding the program, including the trial and a proposal by university President Hunter Rawlings to ban freshmen from athletic competition.

Current football players say the controversies will diminish the value of their degrees.

"No one has the right to do that," said Mike Ertz, an offensive lineman from Kansas City, Mo. "I want my degree to mean the same as a nonathlete. I don't want to walk into a job interview with the cards stacked against me because I was a studentathlete here."

Ertz said the athletes "shouldn't have to be here today to defend ourselves."

Quarterback Tom Poholsky said because of the "recent sensationalism relating to the court trial of two former athletes, our academic program at the University of Iowa has been discredited.

"We feel the media has attacked us as students and individuals, and stigmatized our academic program, and we're not going to tolerate it."

League on hold. The National Wrestling League has suspended operations to allow restructuring for corporate sponsorship. The Iowa Stalkers were to have wrestled Cleveland tonight at Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines.

Wrestling with college. Kent Streicher of Starmont of Strawberry Point hopes to sign with Iowa today. But another of the state's three-time state prep wrestling champions, Stacey Rice of Storm Lake, has put his decision on hold as he prepares for shoulder surgery. Rice competed much of the season with stretched ligaments and a partial separation of his left shoulder. Rice said Nebraska is high on his list. Relays honorees. CBS announcer Irv Cross will be the Drake Relays parade marshal and Wayne Duke, who will soon retire as Big Ten Conference commissioner, has been named honorary referee for the April 28-29 event. Cross, an all-American end who played professional football with Philadelphia, will speak at the Friday night Relays awards dinner and to students. Duke is a native of Burlington and a 1950 graduate of Iowa.

Race added. A cycling race has been added to a running event as a part of Veishea 1989 at Iowa State. The Veishea Classic Criterium bicycle races are scheduled for April 29. The Veishea Classic Road Race, consisting of a 5K and a 10K race, is scheduled the week before. Entry forms are available at many Des Moines area fitness clubs or by contacting Veishea, Inc., at (515) 294-1026.

Hawkeye honored. Iowa volleyball player Ginger Lorentson is to receive the Charles Schoen Interfaith Scholarship at a University of Iowa School of Religion luncheon May 1. The $300 scholarship goes annually to an undergraduate majoring in religion. The sophomore played in 28 of Iowa's 34 matches, this season and was academic all-Big Ten, recording a 3.90 grade-point average.

Drake awards. Jon Anderson, a senior from Waukee, was named Drake's outstanding wrestler for the second consecutive year at the annual team banquet Sunday. Anderson finished his collegiate career with a 130-37 record, including a 45-6 mark this season at 134 pounds. Dennis Rockhill won the Dr. Kelly Bast award for academic and athletic achievement. Other awards went to Brent Helmkamp, Ward Buster and Jason Eckenrod.

Team Canada's gain. If Detroit's season ends abruptly, there may be a lot of hockey left for Steve Yzerman and several teammates. Yzerman will be asked to play for Team Canada in the world championships. Several of his teammates could be asked - Gerard Gallant and Adam Oates by Canada, and Rick Zombo and Lee Norwood by the U.S.

Tuesday's games. Blues 6, North Stars 1: At St. Louis, Peter Zezel had three goals and two assists as the Blues ousted the North Stars in five games. Zezel, who tied a team playoff scoring record held by four other players, had two goals and an assist during a four-goal outburst in the second period. ... Bruins 4, Sabres 1: At Boston, Randy Burridge broke a scoreless tie with a shorthanded goal in the second period as Boston clinched its playoff series. The Bruins will play Montreal beginning Sunday. Flyers 8, Capitals 5: At Landover, Md., Pelle Eklund scored a power-play goal with 6 minutes left to break a 5-5 tie and Ron Hextall scored the first goal in a playoff game by a goaltender. Philadelphia took a 3-2 lead in the series. . . . Red Wings 6, Blackhawks 4: At Detroit, Petr Klima and John Chabot scored goals 59 seconds apart in the third period to lift the Red Wings, keeping them alive in the series. Chicago still leads, 3-2.... Flames 4, Canucks 0: At Calgary, goalie Mike Vernon had his second shutout in three games as Calgary moved within one victory of clinching the series. . . . Kings 4, Oilers 2: At Inglewood, Calif., Wayne Gretzky assisted on power-play goals by Chris Kontos and Bernie Nicholls, then added an insurance goal as Los Angeles beat defending champion Edmonton to stay alive in the Smythe Division playoffs. The Oilers lead, 3-2.

Tuesday's games. Cavaliers 92, 76ers 90: At Richfield, Ohio, Cleveland won despite Charles Barkley's 23 points and 15 rebounds. ... Bucks 125, Nets 93: At Milwaukee, Ricky Pierce's 19 points and the Bucks' two scoring spurts, one closing the first half and the other opening the second, led Milwaukee. The Bucks used a 20-9 run in the final 5 minutes of the first half and a 19-9 surge opening the third quarter to take control of the game. Milwaukee's 47th victory is Del Harris' single-season high in six years of NBA coaching. . . . Rockets 108, Pacers 99: At Houston, Otis Thorpe scored 26 points and injured Mike Woodson came off the bench for 21 as Houston clinched a playoff berth.... Trail Blazers 126, Clippers 102: At Portland, Ore., Clyde Drexler scored 24 points to lead Portland to its third straight victory. . . . Warriors 114, Heat 98: At Oakland, Calif., Chris Mullin scored 25 points and Terry Teagle had 24 as Golden State improved its record to 11-0 against the NBA's three worst teams. ... Trail Blazers 126, Clippers 102: At Portland, Ore., Clyde Drexler scored 24 points and Terry Porter had his second triple-double of the season as Portland won its third straight game.

Rice to Bulls? Glen Rice's NBA future may very well be with the Chicago Bulls. The Michigan forward's perimeter shooting in pressure-packed NCAA tournament games didn't go unnoticed by Bulls vice-president Jerry Krause.

sign two players, and Iowa remains on hold with prep all-American Deon Thomas of Chicago.

Joining Bergman at Iowa State will be 6-9 Kirk Baker. Baker played a major role as Lansing Community College captured the National Junior College Athletic Association Division II title in 1988. Baker didn't plan on leaving town, committing to Michigan State.

But his plans changed when he didn't qualify academically. He is currently attending Ellsworth Community College in Iowa Falls to improve his grades. He didn't compete in basketball there and will have two years of eligibility remaining.

Iowa State also signed three players in the fall — Doug Collins, a 6-2 guard from John Logan College in Carterville, Ill; Willie Holliday, a 6-7 forward from Cody High School in Detroit; and David Washington, a 6-4 guard from Brother Rice High School in Birmingham, Mich.

Collins was suspended from his team but allowed to practice after he was allegedly involved in a burglary in January. His case is pending, and Iowa State Coach Johnny Orr said Collins will still be part of the team if he is exonerated.

Abatemarco signed four players during the fall signing period, and will sign four more this week. In addition to Murphy, signing will be 5-11 guard Wayne Embry of Westark Community College in Fort Smith, Ark.; 6-7 forward Kevin Sams of Southeastern Community College in Burlington; and 6-7 center Sam Powell of Laramie County Community College in Laramie, Wyo.

Embry, a native of Little Rock, Ark., averaged 17.3 points this season, shooting 50 percent from the field and 52 percent from three-point range. He was a two-year starter at Westark. Sams, from Washington, D.C., led Southeastern in scoring, at 20.3 points a game, and rebounding, 8.6. He also led the Blackhawks in field-goal percentage, blocked shots and minutes played. Powell, the latest player to commit, has excellent quickness and jumping ability. Projected to play the post, Powell averaged 22 points and 14 rebounds.

Signing with Drake in the fall were Mike McMahan, a 6-9 forward from Independence Junior College in Kansas; Calvin Tillis, a 6-7 forward from Angelina College in Lufkin, Texas; Kaylon Green, a 5-11 point guard from Weatherford College, Texas; and Chris Jones, a 6-4 guard from Hamilton High School in Milwaukee.

ISU board asks input on panel probing grades

By DAN HOLM Register Correspondent

AMES, IA. - The Iowa State Athletic Council on Tuesday unanimously expressed its interest in being part of a committee that is to investigate the academic performance of Cyclone athletes.

Iowa State University President Gordon Eaton is to appoint the panel. composed of faculty members.

Iowa State Athletic Director Max Urick, who told the council he hoped to be on the committee, supported current academic programs.

"I don't really fear any kind of committee's report or recommendations," he said. "I have a couple of recommendations of my own."

AWARDS. Wrestler Tim Krieger and basketball player Carmen Jaspers have been named Iowa State's 1988-89 Athletes of the Year. Krieger, of Mason City, won his second NCAA 150-pound individual title and was named the NCAA tournament's most outstanding wrestler. Jaspers, of Ackley, is the Cyclones' fifth-leading scorer on the women's team.

NOMINEES. Basketball player Marc Urquhart and volleyball player Linda Welch are Iowa State's nominees for the Big Eight Medal of Honor. Urquhart owns a 3.32 gradepoint average. Welch compiled a 2.97 GPA in management.

TV DEAL. Urick said the Big Eight schools are negotiating a television package that would show conference football games nationwide on a delayed basis. The package would also involve other sports, including some women's events.

Two current players on the Drake roster, guard Preston Lewis and forward Elliott Henderson, have decided to transfer to junior colleges after this semester. Lewis, a second-year freshman, played in four games last season, averaging 1.5 points. Henderson, a freshman from Milwaukee, was withheld from competition this season. He plans on returning to Drake after junior college.

Iowa Coach Tom Davis signed two players in the fall, 6-3 guard Dale Reed from Little Snake River Valley High School in Baggs, Wyo., and Jay Webb, a 6-9 forward from Archbishop Mitty High School in San Jose, Calif.
