HORSE RACING Frink's ride ends with retirement

The finish of Friday's eighth race was approaching quickly, and Doug Frink whacked Raised Twice twice with his whip, trying to coax a little more effort out of the gelding.

The race wasn't on the line -Raised Twice was a distant trailer in the six-horse field — but it was important to Frink to ride his horse out to the wire. After 14 years in the saddle, he decided Friday that it was time to call it quits.

At 28, Frink should have been in the prime of his career. He had past success with quarter horses, winning the Nebraska Stallion Futurity three straight years. But after making his a debut, he was winless in 68 mounts at Prairie Meadows. "I was riding as hard as I can and it wasn't doing me any good," Frink said. "Oh well, I've got a photo album at home. I'll go home and take a break for two or three weeks." Mainly, he was tired of playing the weight game. A natural 145-pounder, Frink rode at 124 pounds. That was too heavy for most Thoroughbred races, and it was a battle for him to make even that weight.

all these little guys at 110 pounds, and I'm trying to do 125 and I've been at 126, 127 - that's a big difference.

"By the time I eat something and drink a couple glasses of water, I'll be up to 132, easy," Frink said.

He spent two days eating and drinking virtually nothing, and spending time in the sweat box. When he weighed himself Friday, it was the last straw.

"I came in one pound lighter, and I thought I'd lose about four pounds," Frink said. "But I loved it - every bit of it."

He will return to Hastings, Nebr., where his wife works at a bank.

Frink won't rule out a comeback, but he notes that once he puts on more weight, it will be tougher for him to return. He leaves with only

Thomas can't sue Pearl - University of Illinois basketball star Deon Thomas was blocked Thursday in his bid to pursue a federal lawsuit against former lowa assistant coach Bruce Pearl, who secretly tape-recorded their conversations in 1989.

A three-judge panel of the federal appeals court in Chicago ruled against Thomas' request that the lawsuit be reinstated.

Instead, the court said Thomas could not use federal and state antieavesdropping laws to seek damages from Pearl, now head basketball coach at Southern Indiana in Evansville.

The appeals court agreed with the result, though not the reasoning, of a ruling by a U.S. District Court judge who dismissed the lawsuit last year. The appeals court said Thomas would be unable to prove that Pearl intended harm when he recorded the conversations.

Agent's appeal upheld — Prosecutors must decide whether to retry a former New York-based sports agent after an appeals court panel overturned his mail fraud conviction.

Still in lead - Nick Price finished off his conservative 71 early in the day and retained the lead Friday in the storm-delayed and uncompleted second round of the Western Open. The storm halted play for 3 hours and stranded 51 players on the course due to darkness.

They marked Price their positions on Conservative the rain-soaked par-72 Dubsdread course at Cog Hill in Lemont, Ill. and were scheduled to return at 7:30 a.m. today to complete the second round.

The third round was to be played as scheduled this afternoon. Price acknowledged he played a little on the conservative side after opening up with a 64. His total is 135, nine under par. lowans to national tourney ----Ben Pettitt of Carroll and Jason Knutzon of Eagle Grove qualified for the USGA junior national golf tournament in play Thursday at the Wakonda Club in Des Moines.

Six lead Toledo Classic — Hollis Stacy, winner of 18 LPGA tournaments, and rookie Suzanna Strudwick were among six golfers to shoot 67s Friday and share the first-round lead of the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic in Sylvania, Ohio.

Barb Bunkowsky, Amy Benz, Patty Jordan and Kelly Robbins also were four under par after a trip around the 6,295-yard Highland Meadows Golf Club course.

Also, a paramedic said a golfer and caddie may have helped save the life of a heart attack victim at the tournament Friday.

Raymond Henzler, 63, of Point Place, Ohio, was lying on a fairway adjacent to the seventh green at Highland Meadows Golf Club when Tara Fleming spotted him while Double duty - Five Winston Oup drivers will race in the Pepsi 400 at Daytona Beach, Fla., today and then fly to the Milwaukee Mile tonight to qualify for Sunday's Havoline 250.

Davey Allison, Rusty Wallace, Darrell Waltrip, Harry Gant and Phil Parsons will race in both.

Schrader denies cheating Suspended car owner Joe Hendrick and driver Ken Schrader denied on Friday that they intentionally cheated to make their car go faster in qualifying for the Pepsi 400.

NASCAR suspended Schrader and Hendrick for four races Thursday after inspectors said they discovered an intentional attempt to bypass the car's restrictor plate, designed to hold down speeds at this fast Daytona track.

"I was on some pretty nice horses tomorrow, but they're all at 119 (pounds)," Frink said. "You've got one regret, though.

"I wanted to win a couple tonight," he said. "If I did, I might have had to think about sitting in there (the sweat box) again tomorrow."

Fans get retribution — Prairie Meadows patrons who have lost money on a jockey will have a chance to exact some revenge today.

The track's jockeys will take turns in a dunk booth as part of "Jockeys Across America," a nationwide effort to raise money for injured rid-ruled Wednesday in favor of Norby Walters, who pleaded guilty to a mail fraud charge last year and was sentenced to 18 months in prison. But Walters' plea agreement allowed him to appeal the decision before serving any time.

The government accused Walters and Lloyd Bloom of persuading college athletes, including former Iowa football players Ronnie Harmon and Devon Mitchell, to sign as clients in violation of NCAA rules. Those rules prohibit athletes from signing until their eligibility expires.

Mat meet today — The Iowa Wrestling Federation has scheduled a freestyle ladder tournament for on Friday upheld Wilber Marshall's today at West Des Moines Dowling High School to determine its freestyle delegation to the Junior Nationals July 25-31 in Fargo, N.D.

The meet begins at 10 a.m. Dowling Coach Ron Gray, who will coach the junior nationals team, said place-winners in last weekend's state freestyle tournament will compete to determine the top three at each of the 12 weight classes and to form the 36-member team from Iowa to the national tournament.

Pettitt fired rounds of 76 and 72 for a 148 total. Knutzon was one stroke behind.

The junior national meet will be held later this month in Portland, Ore.

She and Jason Hamilton, the caddie for Alicia Dibos, raced to Henzler. The two performed CPR 8 to 10 minutes.

"Her making an effort to do CPR probably gave him the chance to survive this," said paramedic Russell Brown.

Tie for lead - Mike Hill and DeWitt Weaver took advantage of wet conditions to play nearly flawless golf en route to 5-under-par 66s Friday to share the first-round lead in the $850,000 Kroger Senior Classic at Mason, Ohio.

Tagliabue said Marshall and the Oilers reached an agreement June 2 but no trade agreement was reached. Oilers owner Bud Adams then tried to call off the signing that night and Tagliabue said Houston ended trade talks in a timely fashion.

But Tagliabue said Redskins General Manager Charlie Casserly interfered by approving further dealings between Marshall's agent and the Oilers, and agreed to pay the veteran linebacker to accept Houston's offer. B. J. GERLAND HyVee Night! Saturday, July 3 be very difficult," Scarnati said. "Under the reduced scenario, it would be virtually impossible."

Timmons said he has considered running the final 30 days in November - after the Woodlands closes but purses still would be low, and it still could be difficult to recruit horses.

"The purse account was built up in 18 months (of simulcasting)," Timmons said. "Right now, it's half gone and I anticipate using the other half in the next 30 days. When that's gone . . . when do we start saving for 1994?"

State Sen. Tony Bisignano, D-Des Moines, has asked the attorney gen- we need a handle of $1 million a eral's office for an opinion on what week," Timmons said. "In June, we happens if Prairie Meadows schedules the final 30 days, but doesn't get enough horses to run a pari-mutuel meet

"The law says we have to 'schedule' 90 performances," Timmons said. "If we schedule them and take entries and no one runs in the races, are we still bound to run the races?"

However, Tom Flynn, the track's bankruptcy lawyer, cautioned that the attorney general's opinion is not likely to solve Prairie Meadows' dilemma. He said that at best, the opinion may give the Racing and Gaming Commission some direction in how to regulate Prairie Meadows should the track incur a horse shortage.

Betting on live races has been light - an average of $94,862 per day but simulcasting has been slightly better than projected.

"I don't care where it comes from, handled a little less than what I expected, but I believe we'll still come in under budget for what we project-
